

Rail Strike Vote Ordered Following New Cut in Wages

When Labor Board Slashes Pay by $60,000,000, Union Heads Order Ballots Mailed.

VOTES RETURNABLE
IN 30 DAYS' TIME

As Pending Decisions for Other Groups Are Announced, They Will Also Vote on Strike.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Cincinnati, June 6.—Railroad wages under the new railroad labor board orders for seven of the larger groups of the country's railworkers soon will be at a level which does not measure up to the American standard of living and which will make vigorous protest necessary, according to R. M. Jewell, head of railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, in explaining the quick strike vote action of the conference of railway union heads today.

In less than two hours' time, heads of eleven railway unions arrived at an understanding whereby each organization will take a strike vote immediately on issuance of wage reduction orders from the labor board for its membership. The votes will be returnable in 30 days and the strike vote for the six shop crafts, sent out by President Jewell's orders today, will be in his office in Chicago by June 30.

The strike votes decided on today will affect about 1,500,000 of the country's railway employees, all except the train service men whose wages are not in dispute before the board. Although wage cuts have not been announced for any classes but the shop crafts and maintenance of way, pending decisions are expected to add five other classes of labor to the general slash. Union executives of these organizations today decided to print their ballots and have them ready to send out to the members immediately if the board, as anticipated, orders further reductions in their pay.

Predict Strike.
"The new wages do not permit a minimum living wage," declared Mr. Jewell today, "and they are wholly at variance with the saving wage championed by Secretary of Labor Davis and President Harding. The labor board, a federal body, has totally disregarded the secretary's attitude as well as the employees' own evidence showing the amount necessary to maintain a railroad man's family."

No further action will be taken by the union heads at this time, pending return of the strike ballots. When the result is known—and the union heads freely predict an overwhelming vote to walk out—a working agreement is expected to be made by which any stoppage of work would take place simultaneously by all organizations.

Meanwhile President Jewell intimated that a persistent fight would be made to keep the necessity for gaining a "living wage" before the board and other responsible authorities.

Say Evidence Ignored.
Characterizing the shop crafts wage cut decision as "a hastily dressed-up and obviously unfair apology" for the $60,000,000 slash, Mr. Jewell declared the evidence in the case had been totally ignored and that the decision gave rise to the belief that the board was trying "to help the railroads carry out their labor policy."

"The board was offered evidence as to the amount needed to secure the necessities of life for railroad families," Mr. Jewell said. "The rates in this decision are so far below those necessary that this evidence must have been ignored."

Mr. Jewell charged that tables published in this decision comparing the purchasing power of railway wages today with those of the pre-war period misrepresented the facts. Based on previous wage reports of the board, Mr. Jewell estimated that in the case of five crafts the new wages which become effective July 1, will purchase less than those of 1915 by over 10 per cent and in the case of three crafts will mean a decrease of over 15 per cent in the standard of living.

DETAILS OF LATEST SLASH.
Chicago, June 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Over the strong protest of the three labor representatives on the United States labor board, a new wage cut of 7 cents an hour for railway shop mechanics and 9 cents for freight carmen cutting 400,000 a year, was ordered by the board today.

The new wage reduction brought an estimated added saving of $20,000,000 annually to the railroads, following on the heels of a $50,000,000 cut in the wages of maintenance of way laborers last week. The shop crafts decision becomes effective July 1, the same date as last week's order.

Minority Report.
The minority report of the labor board, which was filed today, stated that the new wages for the shop crafts would be sufficient to maintain a minimum living wage for a family of four. It also stated that the new wages for the freight carmen would be sufficient to maintain a minimum living wage for a family of three.

NINE INDICTMENTS FOR DEATH OF BOY IN ROCKING AFFAIR

Manslaughter Charges Against Group of Youths Are Sustained by Grand Jury.

TWO MURDER CASES
FOR A. B. & A. FIGHT

Allen and Williams Held for Death of Walden and Injury of Chastain Last Month.

The Fulton county grand jury Tuesday morning indicted nine young boys for involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Carlos Stanley, 16 years old, following a "rocking-in" at McCall's crossing several weeks ago.

G. P. Allen and H. J. Williams, were indicted for murder as the result of the killing of Dan Walden, in the shooting affair in the yards of the A. B. & A. railroad about a month ago. These two men were also indicted for assault with intent to murder J. J. Chastain, as an outgrowth of the same affair.

The boys indicted for the death of young Stanley are Burt Baisden, Preston Heard, Alvin Peck, Charlie Cook, Clifford Fain, Lamar Gower, Buren Farlow, Frank King and Fournery Mann. All of them are out on $1,000 bond each, having been released soon after the death of Stanley.

Stanley was said to have been returning from escorting a young girl home from church Sunday night, when he was told to run by a crowd of boys. They began to rock him, and several rocks striking him, and he died several hours later from a fractured skull.

Allen and Williams were held to the grand jury by Judge T. O. Hathcock in the municipal court following the preliminary hearing on warrants sworn out by Chastain. No bills were found against Charlie Hunt, a negro employee, and Hunter C. Hames, a clerk at the yards, who were also bound over to the grand jury.

Lengthen Life Quarter Century Doctor Advises

President of Southern Medical Association Addresses Emory Alumni Here.

If the parents of America will spend a few hours in learning the known facts regarding diet and nutrition and teach these facts to their children, twenty-five or more years can be added to the average life, according to Dr. Seale Harris, president of the Southern Medical association and one of the foremost physicians of the country, in the principal address delivered Tuesday night at the conference of district, city and state health officers held at Wesley Memorial church in connection with Emory university medical department alumni week.

Dr. Harris discussed exhaustively food values and the proper foods to eat and also expounded some modern eating fads which he characterized as being of no value whatever. He declared that "patent medicine profiteers" and "yeast manufacturers have created a demand for the so-called 'concentrated vitamins,'" he said the well informed physician can prescribe foods which have great vitamin contents that are cheaper than yeast or the kind of vitamin that is put up in bottles.

For Cows and Gardens.
Dr. Harris declared that when parents have learned that a cow and garden for every family are as essential to good health as is the house in which they live they will have gone a long way toward the successful rearing of their children.

"The unfortunate city dweller cannot have his own cow and his own garden but the dairyman and truck farmer can supply his family with the milk and fresh vegetables that should be the most important part of the daily food," he said.

Dr. Harris said the properly nourished person of any age is less liable to catch the contagious diseases than over-weight or under-weight persons.

During the war Dr. Harris was sent to Europe on a special mission for the government to study food conditions and their relation to pellagra. He cited the case of the Germans who, prior to the war were heavy eaters. He said prior to the war and that for this reason the Germans suffered from arterial and kidney diseases. He said since the war when food was used with more judgment the sickness and death rate of persons over fifty years old decreased while diabetes, a disease due solely to overeating, disappeared almost entirely.

Education Needed.

WILLINGHAM FIRM
INSOLVENT LONG BEFORE FAILURE

Losses Entered on Books of Concern as Assets and Accounts Juggled, Says Witness.

Auditor Declares Company Owed Nearly Million Dollars Six Months Before Crash.

OVERDRAFT OF $218,000
LAID TO WILLINGHAM

Macon, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—Alleged practices in "high" financing, rivaling J. Rufus Wallingford's exploits, by Richard F. Willingham, auditor for larceny after trust, were described to the jury today, one witness declaring that six months before the Willingham Warehouse company failed, it was insolvent to the extent of $700,000.

Despite this large deficit, the company paid a dividend of $10,000 in 1920, W. O. Martin, auditor and expert accountant of Atlanta, testified. As far back as 1916, he continued, the corporation showed an alleged asset of $600,000 on its books when the actual figures should have been a loss of $65,000 for 1916.

This entry, he said, was made to "cover losses," but it was changed May 6, 1920, "wiping it out, in effect, as though it had never been made."

$218,000 Overdrawn.
On February 29, 1920, the witness said, the warehouse owed $386,336.45 more than it had, counting the capital stock. At one time in 1920, he asserted, the books of the company showed Willingham at a later time when he appeared to have an overdraft of $118,000 against him, he drew another $100,000 and increased the overdraft to $218,000.

From February 29, 1920, to the close of business in August, a total of $432,000 was checked out of the general fund of the warehouse company in the Fourth National Bank of Macon, and paid to the Wachovia Bank and Trust company, of Winston-Salem, N. C., the witness testified.

F. H. Fries, president of that bank, is Willingham's father-in-law, and Willingham had borrowed $517,130.75 from the Wachovia bank, Martin testified.

Martin also brought out that the Wachovia bank had sold a paper of the warehouse company for $100,000 to a New York bank, and that the warehouse company in order to take care of this paper had wired the money to New York.

Accounts Juggled.
It was brought out in the auditor's testimony that funds of the Shippers' Company, for which the Willingham Warehouse company was collecting stock subscription, were deposited by the warehouse in its general account in the Fourth National bank. From March 3 to March 19, approximately $102,500 was so deposited, the witness said.

Before court convened this morning the defendant with Mrs. Willingham and several relatives and friends were grouped about the attorneys' table. New faces appeared among those accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Willingham, and during the afternoon still other of Mrs. Willingham's friends appeared with her for the afternoon session. Willingham's brothers and other relatives were sitting within the bar railing throughout the day.

Judge Mathews opened court by asking Walter A. Harris, defendant's counsel, if he was through cross-examining J. W. Nix, of Atlanta, secretary-treasurer of the Shippers' Company, and on the stand when court recessed late Monday afternoon.

"No sir, I certainly am not," replied the attorney.

Defense Scores.
Nix was brought back to the stand and underwent another series of cross-examinations by the defense. With the exception of one instance he stuck to his testimony of the day before, but when General Harris referred again to a request by R. H. Slismon, who was then secretary of the company, for Mr. Nix to sign two large checks, he appeared not quite so positive as on Monday.

"Didn't you testify yesterday," asked the general, "that Mr. Willingham's signatures were on those two checks when Mr. Slismon brought them to you?"

"My recollection is that Mr. Willingham had signed them and wanted to make the undertaking a success."

Snap Bean Farm Of Uncle Remus Will Be Bought

Memorial Association at Meeting Votes to Purchase Historic Tract.

Decision to purchase the "Snap Bean Farm" located to the rear of the Wren's Nest, former home of Joel Chandler Harris, noted creator of Uncle Remus, was made Tuesday at a meeting of the Uncle Remus Memorial association, which owns the old Harris home.

The "Snap Bean Farm" has been under option to the association for some months, original plans for its purchase having been made about a year ago. These were held in abeyance during the period of depression, but Tuesday the organization definitely decided to take over the plot, and it is expected to do so in September. A fund of $1,000 has already been raised for the deal, and it is expected that the remainder of the $5,000 purchase price will be raised in the near future.

A report was made at the meeting showing that $150 was raised on the recent festival, sponsored by the association, at which Miss Mildred Harris Camp, daughter of the late Mr. Harris, and her husband, Mr. Edwin Camp, and daughter of the noted author, was crowned queen.

Mrs. E. C. Hastings, secretary and ranking officer present, presided over the meeting in the absence of Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, the president, who is ill. A letter of sympathy was sent to Mrs. Wilson. Mrs. R. T. Connolly, Mrs. B. B. Brevard Montgomery, who were instrumental in staging the festival, were thanked for their efforts in making the undertaking a success.

GASOLINE PRICES WILL JUMP AGAIN, IS PREDICTED NOW

As Congress and Justice Department Open Probe, Rumor of More Increases Is Heard.

LA FOLLETTE PROMISES
THOROUGH INQUIRY

But Senate Committee Could Not Meet Tuesday—Members Were Playing Golf Instead.

Washington, June 6.—Congress and the justice department have opened "court" in the interest of 10,000,000 American auto owners faced with constantly increasing gasoline prices.

Despite the fact that there are record reserves of both gasoline and crude oil now in storage in this country, the word has gone forth that the summer open season for motorists will be marked by high "gas" prices. By July 1, it is stated, prices will increase from 2 to 7 cents more per gallon, after steady increases during recent weeks.

In response to complaints pouring into congress and the justice department from all sections of the country, both agencies of government have set out to find the "why" of the increases.

Study Legal Angles.
First, the department of justice is giving "much attention to the legal questions involved in the gasoline industry." It is assumed that this study comprehends going into the possibility of understandings among oil concerns looking to simultaneous boosting of prices or to a prevention of any price cutting war. In addition, investigations are making reports, it is said, concerning all phases of the industry in order that the department may effect a basis upon which to proceed.

Second, the senate manufacturers committee has completed its plans for an extensive probe into the whole industry and particularly into the recent increases in gasoline prices.

Committee on Links.
Senator La Follette, Wisconsin, chairman of the senate manufacturers committee, which will conduct the investigation, said that it probably will be two or three days before the committee will be ready to start its probe. La Follette tried to get his committee together Tuesday for a discussion of methods to be pursued in the inquiry, but most of the members had flown the senate tariff debate and had taken refuge on the golf courses. Another effort probably will be made to get the committee together Wednesday.

La Follette promises an inquiry "of a far-reaching effect." What the committee will primarily attempt to do, he said, was whether the big oil companies are justified in taking a cent or two a gallon out of the price of gas every few weeks and how they arrive at the increases.

HARDWICK RAPPED ON BOND POSITION

Judge G. H. Howard Addresses Gathering in Columbus on "Sociability Run."

Columbus, Ga., June 6.—(Special.) Predicting victory for the proposed bond issue, Judge G. H. Howard, former state highway attorney, in a statement issued tonight expressed great disappointment at the opposition to the bond issue "expressed in published interviews of Governor Hardwick."

"In my travels about the state I have found that the governor's income tax plan is not popular, whatever merit the plan may have," stated Judge Howard.

In an address this afternoon at Hamilton, in Harris county, Judge Howard asserted that the governor has submitted no plan for matching federal highway aid, but that he has suggested a state income tax that no one has endorsed.

"Senator Watson has suggested a plan," stated Judge Howard at Hamilton, "but the governor hasn't suggested any plan. He says that this is no time for bonds. The speaker said that the governor at every barbeque and county fair that he has attended, has advocated an income tax. Following his assertion that the governor had suggested no plan to match federal aid, Judge Howard half-jocularly said:

"The election is coming on—maybe that's the trouble." A bond issue highway rally was held here tonight.

Presidential Veto Of Bonus Measure Declared Certain

CARNIVAL SPRITES
WILL REIGN AGAIN
IN ATLANTA TODAY

Today Is Children's Day, With Diversity of Gay Sports for Progress and Prosperity.

Lack of Money-Raising Provision in McCumber Measure Is Ground for Harding Opposition.

ONLY PLAN SUGGESTED
IS SALES TAX METHOD

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.
Washington, June 6.—(By Constitution Leased Wire)—Bonus legislation which has reposed with an air of passage-by-election-time confidence among republican members of congress going before the polls this fall, received a severe setback yesterday.

A member of the senate, who requested his name to be withheld, after a conference at the white house stated that the president emphatically expressed his intentions of vetoing the bill unless a revenue-raising clause was added.

President Harding, the senator declared, was bitterly opposed to the legislation as it now stands. He is said to favor the sales tax feature as the only means by which funds for meeting the $4,000,000,000 expenditure can be raised.

Parade Called Off.
The "bonus parade," which was to accompany the bill to the senate, did not take place. And it now begins to look as if there will be no parade. Senator McCumber, author of the finance committee bill, stated today that he would have no "circus stunts" with the presentation of the bill, which is expected to formally reach the chamber Thursday of this week, provided he is able to finish the bill by that time and the democrats agree not to try to make political capital out of the situation that will come into effect the moment the measure is received by the clerk.

Exactly what has happened to the parade idea is in doubt. That there was to have been a demonstration was the information given out in Senator McCumber's office last Friday. The report still persists that there will be an escort, but indications are that something has happened and that the bill, when it finally leaves the finance committee for the floor, will travel just as do other bills; that is, in the pocket of the senator who will direct the fight for its enactment, in this case Senator McCumber.

Veto Certain.
The senator who was in conference yesterday with President Harding informed his colleagues that if the McCumber bill is passed the president will surely veto it. He made it plain that any senator who has been entertaining a hope that the president might change his mind and sign the bill "just as well realize the fact that this bill will be vetoed if it passed."

The president in a letter to Chairman Fordney, of the house ways and means committee, some time ago, suggested just one way to raise the money and that was through the imposition of a sales tax and it is agreed by

Fair and Warmer Weather Slated Despite Deluges

Downpour Tuesday Plays Havoc on Atlanta Golf Links.

After witnessing one of the hardest downpours of rain that this vicinity has experienced in many days, the recent multitudinous showers, precipitations, gully-washers and "trash-toters" to the contrary notwithstanding—the local weather man Tuesday night drew a despairing breath, tore his hair a bit and, with commendable sportsmanship, predicted—

"Fair and warmer weather today."

The terrific rain of Tuesday came just at dark and was accompanied by a rousing electrical disturbance. Atlanta itself did not receive an unusual amount of rain, but its outskirts to the north were treated to one of the most thorough soakings ever administered.

The official report issued by the weather bureau at Washington last night, however, indicated local showers for the day. Take your choice, R. H. Martin, vice president of the Capitol City club, reported that the embankment about the Brookhaven lake was swept away for a space of 50 feet by the flood of water and mud that swept over the golf links at hole No. 8 and, after demolishing the bank, poured into the lake.

"The damage was light," Mr. Martin stated, "but for several days until the lake can clear up, swimming will be barred." The Brookhaven lake dam was undamaged, despite the Leaders of both parties that a sales tax cannot be passed by either house of congress.

"The president," said the senator who talked over the bonus with him, "has not changed his mind in the slightest degree." There is absolutely no reason to expect that he will. "The bill will be vetoed if passed in its present form."

Provisions of Bill.
The senate bonus bill provides the McCumber certificate plan. This would give the ex-service men a certificate of indebtedness upon which they would be entitled to borrow 30 per cent from banks at the outset, with increasing loan value on the securities up to their maturity.

However, the senate bill, like the house measure, carries no provision for payment, and it is evidently the purpose of the legislators to use the British war payments for the initial obligations. President Harding, it is understood, holds that congress should provide a means of payment or enact no bonus bill at all.

Constitution Gets Confederate Money For Young Collector

Johnny Green, 8, who lives at 849 Duke street, Norfolk, Va., has a hobby for collecting old bills and coins. Recently the little fellow wrote The Constitution that he had advertised in papers in his home state and others for some Confederate money and was much discouraged to receive no answers.

He inclosed a dollar with the request that The Constitution advertise for some of the currency of the 60's. The boy's note was so manly and earnest that his dollar was returned to him and a small news item was inserted in The Constitution requesting that all persons possessing Confederate money immediately communicate with Johnny.

Tuesday the boy wrote another letter, this time thanking The Constitution for the splendid results obtained. "I got the money—lots of it—from all over the country—Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi," he declared triumphantly. "Daddy always said there are good, kind people everywhere, and the best people on earth are the blue-blooded southern aristocracy. Now I know he was right."

If strictly followed out, as it is to be hoped they will be, these rules will go far to prevent the confusion of consumers—and some retailers—as to the material content of the goods they buy.

BARACA-PHILATHEA SESSIONS OPENED

The Georgia Baraca and Philathea Sunday school classes began their annual three-day session Tuesday night, at the Baptist Tabernacle, on Luckie street, with President E. J. Taylor, of Macon, presiding.

An elaborate program was arranged, including special music and refreshments at the reception tendered out-of-town guests by local members of the association.

Addresses of welcome were delivered by Secretary B. S. Barker, of the chamber of commerce, and S. H. Syron, vice president of the state association. Mrs. M. W. Kennedy, of Savannah, president of the state Philathea union, responded.

Especially interesting was the talk made by Rev. B. F. Pinn, Jr., of Jonesboro, whose subject was "Catching a Vision of Baraca-Philathea Possibilities," which he classified under three heads: First, Saving Men. Second, The Task of the Baraca-Philathea. Third, by using the organization's motto: "We Do Things."

The two associations will hold separate business sessions Wednesday morning and afternoon, each being featured by short talks from interesting speakers. Harry Eicheridge, well-known Atlanta attorney, will address the Baracas on the subject of "Well Organized Class," while the same subject will be discussed before the Philathea by Miss Dora Haynes, teacher in the Atlanta public schools.

E. M. Crozier, of Augusta, and J. L. Christian, of Savannah, will address the joint session Wednesday evening, the former's subject being "Importance of the Secret Service Bank," and the latter talking on "The Value of the City Union."

HOLDER SUBMITS HIGHWAY REPORT

Since July 1, 1921, the federal government has appropriated to Georgia the sum of $1,997,957.58 for state aid road construction, according to the annual report of John N. Holder, chairman of the state highway commission submitted to Governor Hardwick Tuesday. Since the federal highway act became effective Georgia has received a total of $9,362,230.50.

Highway and bridge construction and maintenance in Georgia during the past year totaled $23,290,530.22, the report showed. The state aid road system, comprising more than 500 miles, has been taken over since January 1 for betterment and maintenance.

Completion of this work will be made by August 1, it was stated. The program for roads and highways in Georgia during the ensuing year calls for a total of 1,700.51 miles, according to the report. The department expects to expend for equipment alone the sum of $1,230,000. With this additional equipment it is expected that the work can be greatly expedited and a larger mileage run up for the year.

Costs of Roads.
The average cost per mile of projects completed, or under construction prior to January 1, exclusive of bridges over 20 feet, was: Topsoil and sand-clay, $9,350.18; gravel and chert, $12,332.28; bituminous macadam, $27,556.27; concrete, $31,180.49. The average cost per mile for projects exclusive of bridges over 20 feet contemplated for 1922 is: topsoil and sand-clay, $9,015.37; gravel and chert, $9,344.77; bituminous macadam, $24,819.63; concrete, $26,472.63.

The following data has been furnished from the records of the highway department for the year 1921, showing the amount spent for construction, administering, surveying and supervision expenses:

Total expenditures for construction ..... $8,721,071.10
Administrative expenses ..... 235 per cent of the main office and the division offices ..... 206,301.63
Survey, plans, computation and supervision of construction ..... 208,678.50
The above figures will show that the percentage for the administrative expenses 2.35 per cent.

"Surveys, plans, computation and supervision of construction 3.08 per cent."
"This shows a total of all overhead expenses of 5.44 per cent."

Data regarding the kind of roads constructed, mileage of each kind and cost of construction was given. The report stated:

"The total amount of money expended for road and bridge work completed, under construction, and new projects amounts to $23,290,530.22, of which amount the federal government has supplied $9,362,230.50."

"For state aid road construction since July 1, 1921, the federal government has appropriated to Georgia $1,997,957.58. The year previous the appropriation was $2,700,000. There is therefore a decrease in the annual appropriation to this state of $700,000."

No Money for 1922.
"Congress has not yet passed a bill appropriating money for highway construction for next year, but the amount under consideration is $35,000,000 per annum, of which Georgia's part will be $1,755,000, which is $200,000 less than the available federal funds for road construction for this year. Nevertheless, the state highway department soon will have under construction 304.53 miles of sand-clay or topsoil roads, 61.06 miles of gravel or chert, 10.73 miles of concrete, and 10.40 miles of bituminous macadam—total 452.32 miles."

"Of the federal aid fund for Georgia this year, $315,000 will be used for building bridges, leaving for road construction about $1,682,000. While all available funds for road construction this year by the state highway department will be less than one-half the amount used for this purpose during each of the past two years, yet the mileage due to decreased cost of labor and material will be almost as great as it has been in any one year since the organization of the state highway department."

Athens Newsboy Works Only For Ice Cream Cones

A General Favorite, Youth
Garners Nickels Merely to Satisfy Appetite.

BY JOHN E. DREWRY.

Athens, Ga., June 6.—(Special).—Ice cream cones and genius—they go hand in hand.

At least such is the case with little 8-year-old Oliver Langford, who sells more papers than any of the other Athens newsies who infest the streets. Oliver is a regular genius in the profession. And back of it all is that popular delight—ice cream cones.

He says that he likes Eskimo pies, but he believes they will never take the place of the ice cream cone. Oliver talks very freely with newspapermen, and says that he hopes some day to be able to give out a "regular interview." But why all this about ice cream cones and genius? It's simply this—Oliver says he wouldn't bother with selling the Atlanta Constitution at all if he couldn't spend the money for his favorite refreshment, plus a little candy and fruit at intervals not so frequent.

Keeps It Circulating.
The other newsies tell it that "Pewie"—for this is our friend's nickname with his colleagues—sells enough papers to make a nickel and then just as fast as his feet will carry him he heads for the first fount and buys the ice cream cone.

While he is enjoying the cream, the paper selling business, so far as he is concerned, is dead. But just as soon as he has finished his feast he is back on the job, and when he has sold enough papers to make another nickel it's back to the soda fountain and candy, or candy kitchen, merely to change his menu.

Oliver is a bright boy, 8 years old, and his teachers in the public school here say his genius is not limited to the paper selling business, for often—in fact, most of the time, he displays rare brilliancy in his school work. He is well advanced in his studies, so his teachers say. But with all, ice cream cones hold the imperial place in the realm of delights for our young friend.

Recently he had the misfortune to fall off the hood of an automobile parked in the business section of the city and for a few minutes there was great excitement, because some of the people thought that Oliver's head was hurt—possibly his head cracked.

Magie Cone Revives.
But, alas! "The word ice cream cone was uttered by some one in the crowd who was familiar with the little fellow, and almost as if by magic his tears dried up and he was trying to find out who it was that had been so thoughtful."

He was not long finding out, and with his kind friend who was carrying his stack of Constitutions for him he sauntered over to Cost's, the nearest fount, where the boy's benefactor bought the coveted cone, and with the buying dried up the tears that had moistened his eyes and cheeks.

Industry is the outstanding characteristic of Oliver Langford while he is working, and he has many friends in the city who will buy papers from none other. He has his regular corner, where he may be found with his stack of papers almost any time before or after school hours. He has a winning smile which, combined with that attractiveness which naturally centers around so small a boy out in the humming business world, has won for him hundreds of friends among the commercial element of the city.

Oliver has not definitely worked out a plan for his life's career—he says that he thinks it is just a bit early yet—but he is inclined to believe that he will make a capable and efficient addition to the "fourth estate." It is certain he is making a success in that phase of it in which he is now engaged.

Where worsted or wood yarn is twisted with yarn or other material, the goods should be labeled to indicate the component yarns.

CHEAPER PHONES ASKED BY CITIES

Urging that reductions be made in the telephone rates to subscribers on the grounds that they are exorbitant compared with the rates put into effect following the war, representatives of the cities of Atlanta, Macon, Columbus, Rome, Athens, Columbus and Eatonton appeared Tuesday morning before the Georgia railroad commission, before which a rule nisi against the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company was heard.

The commission took the case under advisement.

Representatives of the telephone company contended that present rates should be maintained on their present basis owing to the high cost of labor and material. In support of their contention, the company filed with the commission recently a large volume of briefs containing technical information showing why its rates should not be revised.

Council Resolution.
City Attorney James L. Mayson,

of Atlanta, presented a resolution adopted by the city council asking for a reduction in telephone rates and improvement in the local service. Mr. Mayson asserted that there had been a noticeable decline in prices of raw material and that maintenance costs and labor had been materially reduced since the rates were increased in 1921.

Mr. Mayson got permission to place City Electrician R. C. Turner on the stand as a witness for the city. In his testimony Mr. Turner stated that he had charge of the telephones used by the city and that he had received numerous complaints from subscribers on the slow service rendered by the telephone company. He also quoted figures on the average price of copper wire for the last half century which showed the prevailing price of that commodity in 1921 to be more than one-third less than the average price during the last fifty years.

Rates Are Cited.
"Business telephones in Atlanta have been raised from $6 to $10.50 in three years," declared Mr. Turner, "the last increase in 1921 was from $7.50 to $10.50. Party lines business telephones are $9.50 at the present time, which is decidedly too high."

"On the extension telephones that cost about $5, the company gets returns of $1.50 per month and the first cost is the only expense, as it is in possible to use the extension while the main phone is in use.

The five largest cities in Georgia sustained 87.7 per cent of the increase in rates and the remainder was carried by 27 other exchanges. Yet switchboards that have the largest number of telephones in operation can be handled more economically than ones that have only a limited few, as each operator handles more subscribers on a loaded board."

Mr. Turner also declared that other states, like New York and Texas, where telephone rates were increased immediately after the war, had protested to their state commissions and reductions had been made.

Few Complaints.
On cross-examination by Hunt Chipley, general counsel for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, Mr. Turner admitted that he had made only one written report complaining against the service during the past year. He added, however, that he had filed innumerable verbal complaints during that time and said he could obtain the names of a large number of subscribers who are dissatisfied with the service they are receiving.

Mr. Turner offered a petition signed by more than 1,000 persons asking the commission to reduce the rates of the telephone company.

In behalf of the other cities represented like New York and Texas, of Macon, Judge Max Meyerhardt, of Rome; C. W. Bell, of Athens, and the city attorney of Columbus presented briefs from the cities contending the commission to effect a reduction of rates in telephone service in those respective cities.

Oscar Williamson, chairman of the telephone committee of the city of Atlanta, and Comptroller Fred C. Woodwall, were included in the official delegation of citizens representing Atlanta at the hearing.

The commission took the case under advisement and announced that fifteen days would be granted for the filing of additional briefs.

Commercial Air Service Planned At Meeting Here

Definite steps were taken Tuesday toward providing suitable landing fields and hangars for regular commercial air service between Atlanta and other cities and an air board for the city was appointed by the mayor.

The meeting, which was held in Mayor Key's office Tuesday morning, marks the culmination of a series of conferences between Rear Admiral William F. Fullam, U. S. N., retired, and the mayor, officials of the chamber of commerce and other organizations. The admiral outlined plans that are now under way in a score of cities for a nation-wide development of regular air service for the transportation of passengers, mail and light freight.

Officers Elected.
The following officers were elected to serve on the board: Chairman, Van B. Burgin, who served for three years in the air force of both the Canadian and American armies; vice chairman, James T. Wardlaw, a prominent engineer and manager of the Southern office of Lockheed, Greene & Co., secretary-treasurer, Harry O. Mitchell, president of the Atlanta Foreign Trade club. Mayor James L. Key was elected honorary life member, and Major Harry B. Claggett, commanding the air force of the fourth army corps area, to honorary membership on the board.

A national convention on aviation will be held in Detroit in September. Van B. Burgin and R. Winston Harvey were appointed to represent the Atlanta board at this convention. All cities over 20,000 population in the fourth army corps area will be invited to participate with Atlanta.

Seek Landing Field.
Immediate steps will be taken to obtain a suitable site for a landing field and the following committee was appointed to survey various localities: Captain George M. Hope, of the Fulton County commissioners, chairman; L. W. Robert, Jr., John E. Addicks and Emmett L. Quinn. Mayor Key and Major Claggett will serve ex-officio. Early conferences will be arranged with the park commissioners, Atlanta real estate board, city zoning commissioners and the Fulton county commissioners. It was announced Tuesday that the committee would appear before the county commissioners Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 to discuss a possible site on Peachtree road.

The personnel of the board, as appointed by the mayor, is as follows: J. E. Addicks, George Eubanks, William T. Rich, Harry O. Mitchell, Emmett L. Quinn, R. Watson Harvey, Captain George M. Hope, E. L. Cain, James T. Wardlaw, Van B. Burgin, L. W. Robert, Jr., and E. H. Elrod, with Mayor Key and Major Claggett serving ex-officio on the board.

TUSKEGEE EXPERTS INSTRUCT FARMERS

The Movable school, under the direction of Harry Simms and his assistants from Tuskegee institute, is demonstrating to negro farmers the study of soils, testing and selection of farm and garden seeds, study and mixing of commercial fertilizers, the care of farm tools, building modern sanitary poultry houses and brooders, making of various useful articles of corn shucks, and a variety of lessons in rural nursing and properly caring for sick patients.

Tuesday, June 6, W. V. Reed, state entomologist, and J. C. Maness, field agent of the Georgia state board of entomology, gave demonstrations and lectures on "Insect Control," especially on the boll weevil, instructing them how to grow cotton under boll weevil conditions. The use of calcium arsenate in the powdered form, rapid and intensive cultivation, two applications of the powder as soon as the squares are formed, using the Flannery one row duster, putting two and one-half pounds to an acre. One single boll weevil will produce from twelve to fifteen millions of its kind in four months, hence, the importance of starting in time.

Wednesday, 2 to 4 p. m., many of the white people of Atlanta will be out to see the exhibit of the movable school under the direction of the instructors from Tuskegee.

To Rebuild Elevator.
Waynesboro, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the stockholders of the grain elevator which was burned recently, today it was decided to rebuild. The work will begin at once. Gary Vinson, hardware dealer of Waynesboro, was elected president of the stockholders.

Benefit Dance.
A benefit dance will be given Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Macabee hall, 87 1/2 Peachtree street, by the Women's Benefit association. All members and friends of the Macabees are invited to attend.

Personnel Association Calls Special Session For Next Friday Night

The next meeting of the Personnel Association of Atlanta is to be held Friday, June 8, at the Chamber of Commerce cafe. The subject for the evening is "Health and Absentee Problems." George H. Phillips will act as chairman.

The association has held two special meetings since the last regular one, and passed a motion to aid the school employment service in placing this year's high school graduates. The firms and business houses of Atlanta were divided into groups, each being given a chairman, and committee. These committees are visiting the firms assigned them to sell the school employment service idea and to obtain positions for the graduates.

Dr. J. J. Cornell, cashier of the Chatham Bank and Trust company, of Savannah, an assistant cashier of the Savannah Bank and Trust company, and C. S. Hall, head bookkeeper of the Citizens and Southern Bank of Atlanta, and J. H. Rigdon, head bookkeeper of the Fourth National bank, were placed on the stand by the state to introduce evidence in regard to the accounts conducted by the Shippers' Company in each bank.

The bankers each brought their records in court, and after explaining the debits and credits they were excused. The records were kept in court, however.

No indication has been given by the defense in regard to the number of witnesses it will use. The state has a list of approximately fifty witnesses, and at the rate the case is progressing it will take fully a week to complete the testimony. If the witnesses are used, this is not expected, however, and it is believed the state will rest its case late tomorrow or early Thursday morning.

me to countersign them. Mr. Sissons was the man who brought them to me, but I can't say positively whether Mr. Willingham had signed them or not.

"You testified yesterday," continued Mr. Harris, "in regard to certain bank accounts Mr. Willingham had opened for the compress company, didn't the banks have signature cards for these accounts?"

"I suppose they did," answered Nix.

"Well, did you ever investigate to see if the banks had signature cards," asked the general.

"No, but I gave one or two my signature when the cards came to me, replied the witness.

Further cross-examination by Mr. Harris showed an arrangement between the Shippers' company and the Willingham Warehouse company in regard to the handling of the compress company's funds by the warehouse company.

Nix, according to his testimony, did not know by whom a bank account with the Chatham and Phoenix National Bank of New York city, had been opened, but in answering cross-questions by the defense he said the account had been opened before two checks he had previously referred to were presented to him for his signature.

Mr. Harris again drew Nix's attention to a financial statement referred to in the testimony Monday which Nix said he had never received. He said yesterday, however, that he had some faint recollection of having received a letter from Mr. Sissons saying there was an error in a previous statement, which Nix had written about, but that the error would be corrected when Nix moved to Macon.

Drafts Paid.
It also was brought out in the cross-examination of Nix that a number of drafts deposited by Willingham for collection in the Fourth National bank were paid by subscribers to the capital stock of the Shippers' Company company when these drafts were presented for payment. Nix said the subscribers could see on the drafts that they had been deposited to the credit of the warehouse company.

John J. Cornell, cashier of the Chatham Bank and Trust company, of Savannah, an assistant cashier of the Savannah Bank and Trust company, and C. S. Hall, head bookkeeper of the Citizens and Southern Bank of Atlanta, and J. H. Rigdon, head bookkeeper of the Fourth National bank, were placed on the stand by the state to introduce evidence in regard to the accounts conducted by the Shippers' Company in each bank.

LENGTHEN LIFE QUARTER CENTURY

proper education is the best remedy for the present conditions. In this connection he said:

"A very little effort studying one or two books that have been written for popular reading is all that is necessary for any person to know the amounts and the varieties of food that increase efficiency and promote longevity.

It is strange that schools and colleges which propose to prepare boys and girls to become successful men and women have so long neglected teaching personal hygiene. The average college graduate knows more about the things that he eats than the ignorant cook who selects and prepares his food. Animals have instinct that keeps them from eating too much, and they instinctively avoid the foods that are harmful to them; but in this day of packing houses and quick railroad transportation the human appetite is a false guide and it is surely true that a large proportion of the men and women of today are 'digging their graves with their teeth.'

"Education is the remedy for most of our dietetic ills and it is gratifying to see that in the last few years the schools and colleges, particularly those that have departments of home economics, are beginning to teach the elements of the physiology of digestion and nutrition. The home demonstration agents are also doing much to spread the gospel of rational eating. The health authorities should also aid in teaching the public that a properly nourished body is the best insurance against diseases of all kinds."

Upwards of 300 physicians are attending the conference, many of them being alumni of Emory university. Of the 3,250 physicians and surgeons who have been graduated at Emory some are now ranked as leading physicians of the country.

Interest In Clinics.
Medical and surgical clinics were clinics being held for both white and features of the program Tuesday, the colored physicians. Among the physicians who lectured or presented demonstrations at the clinics Tuesday were Drs. H. R. Donaldson, T. F. Goodwyn, F. K. Boland, J. F. Denton, E. G. Ballenger, C. E. Elder, W. A. Upchurch, J. L. Campbell, W. S. Goldsmith, L. S. Hardin, O. H. Matthews, E. C. Davis, G. R. Noble, J. J. Clark, Theodore Toepel, C. W. Ricker, C. C. Aven, John Funks, S. S. Schochet, A. H. Buncie, W. L. Fankhauser, Dunbar Roy, J. C. McDougall, E. S. Colvin, Murdock Eguen, L. B. Robinson, M. C. Pratt, and E. G. Ballenger. Dr. Phinizy Calhoun delivered a lecture at Grady hospital Tuesday afternoon.

Wednesday the clinics will be continued with other leading physicians serving as lecturers and demonstrators. The sessions are being held at Grady hospital, St. Joseph's hospital, Davis-Fischer, the Piedmont hotel, Noble sanitarium, Wesley Memorial hospital and Georgia Baptist hospital.

Dr. J. W. Roberts, secretary of the Emory alumni association, declared that the new Wesley Memorial hospital on the campus at Emory will add impetus to the move to make Emory a great medical school. The institution will cost $2,000,000 and will be one of the best equipped hospitals in the country.

Officers of the association will be elected Thursday night at a dinner to be given by the physicians at the Capital City club. The principal speaker at the dinner will be Lieutenant-Colonel Heywood S. Hansell, an Atlanta man now in the army who was graduated at Emory in 1899.

WANTS OLD CHARTER PRESERVED AS IT IS

from council at its meeting Monday afternoon to appear at the session of the general assembly and use every legitimate effort and influence to secure enactment of the amendments exactly as approved by the people.

Denouncing Representative Bentley's refusal to accept the voters' decision, Mr. Ashley declared that "he is striking a blow at democratic principles of government."

"This is the people's government. If we are to pass on a measure and then have it defeated by our representative in the legislature it is deplorable. It is a blow at democratic government. It is one-man rule."

"No matter what his private opinion is, he should be bound by the people's will. Our committee will make every effort to put the amendments through."

Notice of Ball.
Mr. Bentley served notice preceding the run-over election on May 30 that if a "representative" vote did not turn out he would not feel bound to support the winning charter before the legislature.

Tuesday he said he had no complaint to make at the size of the vote, which was over 13,000, but he would be going counter to his convictions to wipe out the police board and cut the terms of the board of education members to end this year.

Councilman Ashley, who has the figures on municipal elections through many years past, declared that the run-over charter election was the biggest in the history of Atlanta, with the single exception of the last bond issue election. Mr. Ashley said that the average number of ballots cast in hot mayoralty contests has been only about 11,000.

The Romance of Cement

This is the Age of Cement.

Towering skyscrapers, impossible without Cement, house hundreds of thousands of workers.

Great bridges and viaducts of Concrete span rivers and valleys.

Miles and miles of Concrete Highways are flung across the land.

Huge Concrete Dams harness mountain torrents, supplying millions of horsepower to industry.

Portland Cement is not merely pulverized rock; it is a manufactured product requiring numerous distinct and varied mechanical and chemical operations for its production.

Safety requires that it be made properly and put upon the market in perfect condition.

Cement, an almost impalpable powder, when mixed with sand, broken stone, and water, quickly causes the combined materials to become solid Concrete with a hardness like native granite.

Portland Cement manufacturers not only maintain their own laboratories, but through the Portland Cement Association cooperate for the conduct of research and tests requiring extensive laboratories. The results of these studies are placed at the disposal of the public.

Individual companies have their trained staffs of chemists and engineers.

In addition, the industry as represented by these individual companies cooperatively maintains 200 trained engineers in different parts of the country, to show the public how to use Cement most economically and efficiently.

The aim of the industry is to provide a product meeting the highest possible requirements, and to place at the service of the public its nation-wide facilities for furthering building and industrial activities.

UNKNOWN CYCLIST HITS LITTLE GIRL

No Deaths Result From Series of Accidents on Tuesday—One Driver Surrenders.

Little 5-year-old Edna Ware, of 33 West Ontario street, was seriously injured in front of her home about 4:20 o'clock Tuesday evening when struck by a motorcycle driven by a man whose name has not been learned by the police.

She was carried to the Grady hospital, where physicians stated she probably sustained a fractured skull and several broken ribs with the possibility of internal injuries. The accident occurred as the little girl was crossing the street in front of an approaching automobile. She got out of the path of the automobile, to be struck by the motorcycle, which occupants of the car say was passing them on the left at a fast rate of speed.

Both automobile and motorcycle were going on Ontario avenue. Those in the automobile were Miss Viola Rogers, Mrs. E. B. Robertson and Misses Eddie Mirna and Venita Chandler, of 428 Crew street, and Mrs. J. T. Smith, of 553 Central avenue.

According to Mrs. Smith, the driver of the motorcycle stopped as quickly as he could after striking the little girl, came back and rendered all help possible. Police are investigating to learn his identity.

Held for Hitting Girl.

F. H. Dendy, 23, assistant credit manager of the W. E. Carter Electric company, was Tuesday at liberty under a $3,000 bond under charge of reckless driving of an automobile. He is accused of being the driver of the machine that Saturday evening seriously injured Miss Nell Perkins, 19, of 45 Forrest avenue, as she alighted from a street car at Forrest avenue and Courtland street.

Mr. Dendy came to police station Monday evening and surrendered, admitting that he was driving the auto, according to Police Chief James L. Beavers, who fixed his bond at $3,000. The bond was signed by L. L. Shivers, vice president and general manager of the Carter Electric company.

Mr. Dendy, who lives at 74 Greenwood avenue, denied emphatically to Chief Beavers that he was under influence of whisky at the time of the accident, as some of the witnesses claim. He also denied that he was speeding and said he did not run off after the collision. He says he did not run off, but remained in the crowd at the scene of the accident.

Paul G. Maines, salesman for the automobile agency, who was demonstrating the machine to Dendy, a prospective purchaser, was arrested immediately after the accident. He was later released under a $1,000 bond. Physicians at St. Joseph's infirmary reported Tuesday that Miss Perkins continued to improve, and they had better hopes for her recovery.

Two Other Accidents.

Two other accidents occurred late Tuesday afternoon were reported to the police.

One was when Mrs. E. M. Johnson, of 277 East Georgia avenue, was slightly injured at Whitehall and Alabama streets, when struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. E. F. Weidmeyer, of 217 Peoples street.

Mrs. Johnson is said to have claimed to have not been hurt beyond being severely shaken up, and requested police not to make a case against Mrs. Weidmeyer, claiming it was her own fault. It is said Mrs. Johnson attempted to cross the street against the traffic signals.

The other accident occurred at Forrest avenue and Butler street, where a little negro girl, Ella Wise Whitte, of 13 Lyons alley, was injured by an auto driven by a negro chauffeur, George Whitley.

Officers T. J. Harrison and J. C. Bowman, who investigated the accident, stated a case of reckless driving would be made against the negro driver.

Willie Johnson, a negro of 164 Piedmont avenue, was slightly hurt

Tuesday night when he was struck by an automobile driven by A. M. Heath, of 52 Cooper street. The accident occurred at Ivy street and Edgewood avenue. The pedestrian was said to be at fault, and no case was made.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Radio Editor: Will you kindly tell me why my crystal set works better on aerial than on another? My aerial consists of two wires, each about 75 feet long, situated on a four-story apartment, and I get poor results. The other aerial consists of one wire 120 feet long, on the top of a two-story building a block away, and gives good results.

T. A.
The length is the prime factor that must be taken into consideration in a receiving aerial. The single wire, 120 feet long, is better because it is nearer to the fundamental wave length that you wish to receive than the other aerial.

Radio Editor: I have made a loose coupler. Which is the primary and which is the secondary coil? I have a variable condenser help very much with a crystal set.

H. L.
The large coil is the primary and the small coil the secondary. A variable condenser would help to sharpen your tuning.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

BY EDWARD N. DAVIS
Formerly Technical Electrical Expert for United States Government

LESSON NO. 62.
REVIEW.

AMPLIFICATION—Amplifiers employing the vacuum tube may be divided into two classes, the radio-frequency amplifier which increases the strength of the radio-frequency signals in a receiving set before it passes through the detector tube, and the audio-frequency amplifier which increases the strength of the signal after it has been changed by the detector tube from an inaudible to an audible frequency.

THE VARIO-COUPLER—This type of inductive tuner functions very efficiently as a receiver of short waves, particularly when combined with two variometers and a vacuum tube, one of the variometers being connected in the grid circuit and the other in the plate circuit.

A FILAMENT OR "A" BATTERY—A storage battery when used as a source of filament current is commonly of the lead plate-sulphuric acid type and is provided with a variable resistance to limit the amount of current flow. The potential is usually six volts and the capacity may vary from 36 to 100 ampere hours. The battery should be recharged at the normal rate when the specific gravity has fallen to 1.175. The level of the electrolyte must be maintained at least one-half inch above the tops of the plates by the addition of distilled water.

A TELEPHONE RECEIVER—Electric waves oscillating at a high frequency, when impressed upon a receiving set, are rectified in pulsating direct current by a detector and then converted into audible sounds by the vibration of the diaphragm in the telephone receivers. The resistance of a single radio receiver, in general use, is from 1,000 to 1,500 ohms and it is customary to mount two of these receivers on a head-band, so adjusted as to cover both ears and eliminate external noises.

THE WAVE-METER—In a simple form the wave-meter consists of a fixed inductance and a variable condenser, used in conjunction with a thermo-ammeter for measuring the wave-length of a transmitter or used with a buzzer when it is desired to measure the wave-length to which a receiving set is adjusted. By calibrating the variable condenser for various settings, the wave-length may be read directly from the scale or from a chart provided with the wave-meter.

THE PLATE BATTERY—In a receiving circuit using a vacuum tube, the plate or "B" battery supplies the current which actuates the diaphragms of the receiving telephones. This battery may be of the storage or dry cell type and is required to furnish but a small amount of current. A type in general use consists of fifteen small dry cells sealed in a block with an insulating compound. These cells are connected in series giving a total voltage for the block of twenty-two and one-half volts. Taps may be taken from intermediate cells to secure a lower voltage.

LISTENING IN

It is pretty hard to determine what is a "radio store" nowadays. In the larger cities, besides any number of shops that specialize in this equipment, nearly all electrical and hardware shops have added wireless sets and parts to their stock.

Now drug stores have gone in for it, carrying all sorts of sets, from $10 up. Pretty soon we shall have the retail vendors of portable sets, to retail at 50 cents or a dollar. Many people say they expect nickel-in-the-slot radio sets next year in the penny arcades at the amusement parks.

Chicago is apparently to be honored with a deluge of radio shows comparable with the flood that has descended upon New York in the last half year. A very large show with over a hundred booths is to take place late June and early in July. But virtually before final plans for this one have been completed, comes news of another to be staged in the coliseum, scene of all trade exhibitions, October 14 to 22.

POSTPONE MEETING OF THEATER GUILD

Newton C. Wing, vice president of the Little Theater guild, announced Tuesday afternoon that no regular meeting of the guild will be held Wednesday night, owing to the Venetian water carnival, which will be given by members of the organization at Lakewood Thursday night.

The Earl Sherwood Jackson, prominent member of the guild and its dramatic director, is in charge of the carnival.

Rehearsal of the four plays to be given an early public performance by the guild will be resumed within a few days. These plays include two one-act comedies from the pen of Parker Hord, the well known Atlanta playwright.

RADIO INCREASES CALLS FOR BOOKS

Not Only Technical Publications, But Wireless Novels Find Big Sale Among Enthusiasts.

One incidental effect of radio which even the most optimistic had not expected is the widespread interest in reading that it has inspired.

This interest has been manifested not only in the technical side, but in the field of books generally. In the case of books on wireless, more good ones have been turned out, of course, in the last year than in the whole previous history of the science. Every recognized publishing house has gone in for radio publication to greater or lesser extent, and theory and practice have both been efficiently covered.

The market for these books seems likely to continue indefinitely.

Furthermore, radio has inspired a great deal of widely-read fiction, novels, serials and short stories which the public has seized upon eagerly. These developments, however, were more or less natural and to be expected. What has been so surprising is the public interest that has been aroused in books far from radio through the personal contact with the authors which the broadcast has made possible.

Fiction, periodicals, essays and books of instruction on subjects such as moving picture scenario and short-story writing have variously come into demand as the result of talks by their authors or editors by radio.

It is an extremely interesting and personal note that broadcasting touches here in thus bringing together, in most cases for the first time and in the only possible way, author and audience. Its effect is likely to be far-reaching and for the general good of literature in the United States.

ARMY HEADQUARTERS MOVED TO ATLANTA

Practically three floors of the new office building being constructed at the southeast corner of Spring and Cain streets by the Massell Realty company have been leased to the war department, it was announced Tuesday.

The offices, containing approximately 25,000 square feet, will be occupied by the headquarters of the war department. The lease was made through Jesse Draper. The government offices will be ready for occupancy about October 1.

The building includes 37 officers and about 200 other persons, formerly stationed at Fort McPherson. Major General David C. Shanks, commander, and his staff will be provided with elaborate offices.

A high-powered radio station will be erected on the roof for the use of the headquarters.

The building is on the Spring street frontage of the mansion property under lease from the state by Ben J. Massell.

WOMAN GRADUATE OF LAW SCHOOL RECEIVES PRIZE

Miss Margaret Jewett, a member of the graduating class of the Atlanta Law school, which will confer diplomas on sixty-three men and two women Wednesday night, was notified Tuesday that she had been awarded the Callaghan prize for general excellence during her attendance in the school.

Miss Jewett, the only woman in the class to receive a diploma, won the attendance honors. She attended night school for the last two years without missing a class.

Upon receiving her diploma, Miss Jewett will be admitted to practice in the superior court, the court of appeals, the supreme court and the United States district court. She declared that she was ready to tackle anything in the legal profession a man could do, but stated that she was doubtful of her qualifications in practicing criminal law.

"I am proud of being a lawyer," she declared. "Simply because I am a woman, that does not mean that I am not sufficiently qualified to handle a case as well as a man. When more women get into the law profession every lawyer will be proud of his profession. This thing of slandering lawyers as a class is all wrong."

B. H. Stone Heads Forestry Association; Macon Session Provides for Fixed Policy

O. M. Butler, state forester; B. H. Stone, Blairsville, newly elected president of the Forestry association; C. B. Harmon, Atlanta, treasurer.

Macon, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—B. H. Stone, of Blairsville, was elected president of the Georgia Forestry association at today's session of the committee assembled here to make plans for an organization to secure legislation to protect the forests of the state.

Other officers elected were A. B. Wood, Sr., Brunswick, first vice president; Mrs. W. W. Starke, Commerce, second vice president, and Senator R. E. Snow, Quitman, third vice president. A secretary and treasurer will be elected later by the executive committee.

The committee adopted a resolution calling for the organization of the Georgia Forestry association with a purpose to formulate plans for an adequate forestry policy to be procured by legislative enactment. The vote was unanimous.

Governor Speaks.
Following the adoption of the organization plan, a nominating committee composed of Mrs. R. L. Berner of Macon, a member of the state board of forestry; C. B. Harmon, of Atlanta, of the Mill Workers association, and Senator E. M. Tharpe, a lumberman of Townsend, was appointed. A resolution committee composed of W. P. Lemon, of the Western Electric company; Mrs. O. A. Park, of the Road of Remembrance, and H. G. Spahr, secretary and treasurer of the state highway department, was named.

Governor Thomas W. Hardwick was the chief speaker at the opening session of the two-day meeting. In his address he advocated legislation for the control of the cutting of timber, reforestation, and for providing police protection to enforce such legislation as the association deemed advisable. The governor also suggested that the lumber men of the state, who are vitally interested in the movement, might materially assist in the project by paying a fee of a few cents on every 1,000 feet of timber cut to support and promote the purpose of the organization.

School Is Suggested.
Besides Governor Hardwick, Dr. A. M. Soule, president of the State College of Agriculture, made an address on forestry and land development, and J. J. Brown, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, spoke on forestry and the Georgia farmer. B. H. Stone, chairman of the Georgia Forestry committee, presided over the session.

Dr. Soule advocated a department of forestry and urged that funds be provided for a school of forestry for the youths of Georgia; that means be devised so that every boy and girl in the schools of the state be given an understanding of trees and forestry problems which have been denied them up to now, and that a complete research and survey of the forests of the state be made by Georgia people, in order to educate and to give them the opportunity to absorb invaluable knowledge of the Georgia forests.

Executive Committee.
The executive committee which was being manifested throughout the state by applications for membership in the Georgia Good Roads association and the payment of the five-dollar annual fee, it was announced Tuesday by William E. Keith, secretary of the association.

"The results from our invitation to Georgians, men and women, to join the good roads association and support the campaign for state bonds for state highways has met with a response even beyond our expectations," said Mr. Keith.

The party was headed by the Rotary Boys' band and stops were scheduled for Newman, Greenville and Hamilton. Speeches will be made at principal towns along the route of the first tour.

Cicely blushed and looked timidly up at the tall, bearded man, who was regarding her with some interest. He smiled kindly and held out his hand. "I am very pleased to know you, Miss Strong," he said. "May I ask in what way I am to suffer on your behalf?"

"You have the misfortune, sir," Douglas said, "to be the editor of a popular magazine, and you are consequently never safe from the literary aspirant. I am one, Miss Strong is another."

"Oh, Mr. Drexley," she exclaimed in some confusion, "please don't listen to him. I have never tried to do anything except children's fairy stories, and I'm sure they're not half good enough for the Ibez. I brought Douglas two to look at, but I'm not sure that they're any good at all. I meant to offer them to a children's paper."

"Nevertheless, if you will allow me," Drexley said, stretching out his hand, "I will take them with me and judge for myself. If I can use them, Miss Strong, it will be a pleasure to me to do so; if I cannot, I may be able to make some suggestion as to their disposal."

"It's awfully good of you, Drexley," Douglas declared, but Drexley was bowing to Cicely. All the gratitude the heart of man could desire was in those soft brown eyes and flushed cheeks.

"I see you're nearly finished," Drexley said. "I am only in time to offer you liquors. I always take a fine instead of a savory, and I shall take the liberty of ordering one for you, Jenson, and a creme de menthe for Miss Strong."

"You're very good," Douglas answered.

The order was given to the head waiter himself, who stood by Drexley's chair. Drexley raised his little glass and bowed to the girl.

"I drink your health, Miss Strong," he said gravely, "and yours, Jenson. May I find your stories as good as I expect to."

Cicely smiled back at him. Her face was scarlet, for the coupling of their names, and Drexley's quiet smile, was significant. But Douglas only laughed gayly as he reached for his hat, and drew Cicely's feather bow around her with a little air of protection.

"Good night, Drexley," he said.

And Drexley, rising to his feet, bowed gravely, looking into the girl's face with a light in his eyes which ever afterward haunted her when his name was mentioned—a light, half wistful, half kindly. For several minutes after they had left, he sat looking idly at the bill or fare, with the same look on his face. There had been no such chance of salvation for him.

Out in the streets they paused. A theater or any place of amusement was out of the question, for Cicely dared not stay out later than 9:30. Then a luminous idea came to Douglas.

"Why on earth shouldn't you come to my rooms?" he asked. "I can give you some decent coffee and read you the first chapter of my novel."

She hesitated, but barely a moment.

"It sounds delightful," she admitted. "I'll come."

He beckoned a hansom, handed her in, and somehow forgot to release her hand. The wheels were rubber-tired and the springs easy. They glided into the sea of traffic with scarcely a sense of movement.

"Life," he said, "is full of new sensations," holding her fingers a little tighter.

"It is our extreme youth," she murmured, gently but firmly withdrawing them. "In a year's time all this will seem crude to you."

"In a year's time," he answered, looking down at her suddenly, thoughtfully, "I will remind you of that speech."

She sighed, but her gravity was only for a moment. She was chattering again gayly by the time they reached the street where Douglas's rooms were. He led her up the stairs, ill carpeted and narrow. His room had never seemed so small and shabby as when at last they reached it and he threw open the door.

"Cissy," he said, "do you know this is what we always talked of, that I should write a story and read it first to you? Do you remember?"

"Yes," she answered softly, "I remember."

He took some loose pages up in his hand. She looked over his shoulder.

"You haven't improved a bit in your writing," she exclaimed. "Do let me type it for you."

"You shall, with pleasure," he answered. "I believe you're the only person who could read it."

"Please light a cigarette," she begged. "I loathe the taste, but the perfume is delightful."

He obeyed her, and she arranged the lamp so that the light fell upon the sheets which he had gathered up into his hand. Then she leaned back in her chair and listened.

"Well?"

She sat up and faced him, her face flushed with excitement, her eyes flashing soft fires.

"There is nothing I can say beyond this," she cried. "It is the sort of book which I always hoped and believed that one day you would write. I am only afraid of one thing. When it is finished and published you will be a great man. You will be so far off, I think I wish that it were not quite so clever. It makes me feel lonely."

He came over and sat upon the arm of her chair. She was very sweet, very dainty, very pretty.

"Cissy," he said, "you need never be afraid of that. Whatever might happen in the future, I shall never enjoy an evening more than this one."

Miss Marion Stearns Re-Elected Junior League President

At the final meeting of the Junior League held Tuesday morning at the Piedmont Driving Club, Miss Marion Stearns, was unanimously re-elected president for the coming year. The other officers were unanimously re-elected also, including Mrs. Hunter Muse, first vice president; Mrs. Lott Warren, second vice president; Mrs. Barbara Boykin, recording secretary; Miss Alice Orme, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Charles Pottinger, treasurer.

Four members were elected by the league, to serve on the executive board; they were Mrs. Eugene Black, Jr., Mrs. Willis Ragan, Mrs. Robert Troutman and Mrs. Henry B. Tompkins.

Committee Reports.
In the absence of the president, Miss Marion Stearns, Mrs. Henry Tompkins, first vice president, presided. The meeting was opened by the reading of the minutes, by Mrs. Hunter Muse, after which the yearly reports were heard from chairmen of the various committees.

Mrs. Rogers Toy, chairman of the free school library committee, in her report, said that it was impossible to estimate the exact number of books distributed during the past year, but that 432 children had been supplied with school books, since the opening of the schools last September. Mr. Sutton has given the league a room in the Spring Street school in which to keep the books filed and since the collection last week of all books loaned to the children during the past year there are 1,726 books catalogued in the library. Mr. Toy also stated that the members of her committee had taken sincere interest in the work and that before the closing of the schools, they visited each school and collected the books personally.

Mrs. Dunlap's Report.
Mrs. Catherine Hook Dunlap, chairman of the social service committee, in a brief report stated that although there were only fifteen league girls on her committee, the work was intensely interesting, and a great deal had been accomplished by her co-workers. The course is given free by the Associated Charities and it is hoped that the membership of this committee will be greatly increased by next year.

Mrs. Ralph Ragan, chairman of the Luckie Street school committee, stated that during the past year, lunches were not only served at the Luckie Street school, but also at the Boulevard school, to their children each day. Her committee consisted of twenty-five girls and she said they were always most anxious and willing to help in any way possible.

Girl Scouts.
The Girl Scouts committee, under the chairman, Mrs. Edwin Peeples, reported that one of the most interesting and attractive courses in the league, was the one given by Mrs. Peeples, which was held on Tuesday, December 12, and met once a week, under the direction of Miss Corinne Chisolm. The course consisted of girls' games and other scout amusements. At the end of the term four league members were given the leadership scout troops. They were Mrs. Perrin Nicholson, Jr., Mrs. Stuart Brown, Mrs. Ben Dunlap and Miss Louise Harwell.

Mrs. Warren's Report.
Mrs. Lott Warren, Jr., stated that this was the first year the league had taken any part in brightening the days for the boys at hospital 48, on Peachtree road. Every Monday afternoon at least six of the league girls went out to the hospital, either taking the boys to ride or visiting with the ones who were unable to leave the hospital. The girls would take cake and candy and other delicacies for the patients and at Christmas each boy received a little package from the league. A radio set has recently been installed as the latest gift from the Junior League.

Members Present.
Following the meeting luncheon was served in the gray room of the club. Individual tables artistically arranged, were adorned with tall vases of gladioli and anemones.

All Atlanta Will Invite Big Federation Convention

Plans looking to the bringing to Atlanta in June, 1923, of the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, a body which averages an attendance of 10,000 women, were formulated at a meeting at noon Tuesday of representatives of the Atlanta Woman's club and the convention bureau of the chamber of commerce, held in the office of the convention bureau.

Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president of the Woman's club, headed the committee from that organization, and W. O. Foote, president of the chamber of commerce; W. C. Royer, of the Hotel Men's association; J. J. Fuller, of the Fruit Exchange; B. S. Barker, secretary of the chamber of commerce; R. K. Rambo and others were among the prominent members of the convention bureau conferring with the clubwomen. Fred J. Faxon, chairman of the convention bureau, unable to be present, is lending every assistance, it was reported, to the bringing to Atlanta of this great body of women, the most representative in the world of the organized activities of women.

Carload of Melons.
A carload of watermelons, the typical Georgia fruit, to be shipped to the convention, was one of the proposals planned for Georgia and Atlanta-made candies, beaten biscuit, also indigenous to the south, and salted peanuts are on the menu of good things from Georgia with which the women propose to shower the women from the rest of the country at Chautauqua, and to persuade them of the superior advantages of this section as a convention center.

An appropriately feminine suggestion which the clubwomen borrowed from the State Federation convention in Savannah last fall will also be carried out. Paper bags big enough to hold a Fortunatus purse of useful articles—pencils, notebooks, crackers, candy, dainties and a world of souvenirs will be distributed for constant use during the convention so that Atlanta and her ambition may never be forgotten for a moment. Atlanta-made balloons with an Atlanta-made motto will be sent on for use at banquets and at crucial moments.

Daily Telegrams.
Daily telegrams from state and city officials, the leading civic organizations and Atlanta's commercial interests will invite the convention, once it is in session. In all the plans the Atlanta Woman's club, the hostess organization to the federation, was assured that the convention bureau would put at the service of the club the entire machinery of the convention and its full backing just as they would support any similar movement on behalf of the women men to bring to Atlanta a men's convention.

Mr. Royer, of the Hotel Men's association, guaranteed the uniform rate provided for the convention for all to the number of 5,000 who come under Atlanta's banner to throw their influence to sending the convention here.

Mr. Barker, of the chamber of commerce, promised the publicity backing of The City Builder and the usual methods for raising the necessary funds for entertaining the convention were suggested to the women. Mrs. Boykin at once appointed committees of clubwomen to attend to the myriad details necessary to make the message of the Atlanta clubwomen convincing. The Atlanta delegates

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

ANY OWMAN CAN

Give two women exactly the same clothes, give them equally attractive features and figures, and one would still look far more attractive than the other if they differed in a certain respect.

The respect to which I refer to is in regard to grooming.

If one woman knew how to put her clothes on well and groom herself properly, and the other didn't, there would still be a big difference in their appearance.

What Grooming Means

Grooming of course includes many things—bathing, the care of the hair, the care of the skin and the care of the clothes themselves. When we speak of a well-groomed woman we mean a woman immaculately clean (that goes without saying) with well kept hands, hair shampooed at proper intervals and attractively dressed, shoes well shined and not run down at the heels, clothes properly pressed and brushed.

Putting on the clothes well is another branch of the same art. It is really marvelous how different clothes put on carefully can look from the same clothes that are just scrambled into. It is interesting to watch a woman who has a talent for putting on her clothes well as she adjusts herself to her gown or her gown to herself (I don't really know which it is), places a hat at just the right angle, and deftly arranges that final test of feminine skill at adjusting clothes—the veil.

The Placing of a Hat

There is no better touchstone of the different effect clothes can give when properly and improperly put on than the placing of a hat. We all know that a hat never looks quite the same at home as it does when madame of the hat shop deftly lowers it at just the right angle upon our heads and then stands back to hypnotize us with her admiration while she bids us regard ourselves in a carefully chosen mirror, carefully placed in the most flattering of lights. Part of the hat's greater charm at this time is the effect of the lights becoming mirror and the excitement of a new hat, but part is also madame's perfect art in the matter of placing. There are some amateurs, to be sure, who acquire as much virtuosity as the professional, but they are comparatively few.

Let the same hat be carelessly put on, too far back and with not enough cant to one side and it may cease entirely to be becoming.

Absolutely perfect grooming, like perfection in anything, is the result of an infinite capacity for taking pains, and also a willingness to spend a great deal of time. It is an admirable thing to have if you're the time to spend. Just as perfect clothes are an admirable thing to have if you have the money that you have the right to spend that way.

One Can Pay Too Much

But one can spend time unjustifiably as well as money. With both it must be a question of the things you want most and what you can afford to spend. A woman whose sister has the reputation of being perfectly groomed told me of a visit the latter once paid her. They were going off on a trip for the day the dishes had to be done, the house put in order, children dressed. Her sister spent an hour and a half getting herself dressed to go out, doing her hair over three times before she was satisfied. She did not lift a hand to help with any of the work.

The hairdresser in an inexpensive hotel told me that many of the women at the hotel came in twice a day for a light wave because that gave the best effect.

I call such things paying too high a price for grooming. But between that and going about with ill-treated hair, ill-dressed hair, constantly dropping hair pins, wrinkled clothes and sloppy shoes, is a golden medium of reasonable care in grooming and adjustment which almost any woman can attain.

Installment XXXIII. THE RETURN MESSAGE.

At sight of Diana's frightened face, the Spaniard stopped on the threshold and made a deep bow. Then with a reassuring smile he said:

"A thousand pardons, senorita! You will forgive me for disturbing you? I came only to suggest that you might care to visit poor Senor Johnston before he returns. I feel he is very ill, and perhaps a touch of your cool hand on his brow might do him much good."

Diana thought quickly. In view of Johnston's letter, which even she was reading in the house of the little Mexican girl, it was impossible that Johnston could be very ill unless he had imbibed some quick poison since he had penned that message. Moreover, it seemed hardly probable that Dominguez would risk a meeting between Diana and her supposed fiancé if the latter were being held a prisoner.

Something warned her that it might be only a ruse to get her out of the comparative safety of her apartment, so she said, as calmly as she could manage:

"Thank you, senor. You are very thoughtful, but I am tired after my exciting day, and I am sure Mr. Johnston would prefer that I rest and visit him in the morning. You are quite sure that he is in no danger?" she asked anxiously.

He bowed acquiescence.

"Quite! It shall be as you wish. Remember, you are charming, and my humble abode," he said with a flashing smile.

"If that is true, then where are my keys?" laughed Diana, holding out her hand. He bowed again, but there was a hint of irony in his grace. "The key to my heart is already in your possession. The others will be forthcoming at a word from you!" "And that word is—?" ventured Diana.

"An affirmative of three letters. Such a simple little word, senorita."

"You did not find it difficult in the case of Senor Johnston," he reminded her. "May I hope to have equal good fortune?"

"Yes, hope—until tomorrow," she added under her breath, and walked away toward the window that opened on the dark park. "Isn't tomorrow a wonderful word?"

"It is, if it brings me the fulfillment of what I most desire."

His eyes were following her as she moved restlessly about the room, but

Mildred Barbour

Who's Who in the Story.

Diana Langley, who possesses to a superlative degree a quality of "true" which she has inherited from her mother, Marjorie Langley, herself a notable beauty to whom

Stephen Dale, a wealthy bachelor, had been devoted for years, impulsively declared her love for Dale, and is greatly told by him that he can never marry because of a trait which she has inherited from her mother, Marjorie Langley, herself a notable beauty to whom

Alex Langley, a young navy officer, whose uncle, Admiral Armstrong, is sentimentally interested in Marjorie Langley at the same time that Byron Bennett, a friend of Diana, marries Ted Saunders, a hopeless suitor for Diana's hand. Young Dale, ordered to California and the day Diana leaves she discovers that she thinks enough of him to marry him, and she is very ill.

After discovering that there is no means of leaving the town that night, they are met by a strange horseman.

Pedro Dominguez, invites them to his ranch and against Johnston's wishes, Diana accepts. After resting at the ranch, Diana received a note from Dominguez saying that Johnston was to be released from his confinement with Dominguez, who informs her that Johnston is seriously ill and will be days recovering.

Dominguez proposes that he bribe Johnston to abandon his supposed claim on Diana and that she marry him instead. He offers her a large sum of money in getting to her a note of warning and a roll of bills to pay for her escape. The Mexican servant but is interrupted by the entrance into her room by Dominguez himself.

He handed the letter to the waiting Spaniard.

"Will you read it, please?"

He looked at her in surprise.

"But, really, senorita!"

Realizing her error in the possible betrayal of the fact that she knew that Johnston was under guard, and yet wanting to see what effect her message would have upon Dominguez, she said quickly:

"I merely want you to see that I made no mention at the conversation you and I had earlier this evening. In case I decide to—er—accept your proposal, I should naturally prefer that Mr. Johnston not know anything about it until the last possible moment."

His smile was significant.

"I assure you that Senor Johnston will not know anything about it," he said, as he bowed himself out of the room.

Diana sank down on the couch with suddenly trembling knees.

His suave words undoubtedly meant that if she accepted his proposal, Johnston would be put out of the way by a surer means than bribery.

WHAT'S WHAT

By Helen Deale

In one of the Douglas Gliding books an awkward young Englishman of "the lower middle class" called by invitation upon a Belgian baroness to whom he had letter of introduction. He was visibly embarrassed, but the great lady set him at his ease promptly. "She saved Harold to a chair and began chatting away to him without looking at him as though his face were already familiar. Harold was impressed by this evidence of superior manners; he was a bit of a stammer himself."

It is not good manners to scrutinize the features, clothes and surroundings of a new acquaintance as though taking an inventory, or gathering evidence for a secret service bureau. The newly introduced must be taken for granted without personal questioning, and without the ill-bred staring curiosity which, in itself, is ruder than the inquisitiveness of the spoken query.

The Children's Hour

CHANCE IF YOU CAN

Here's another novel ball game for the younger set! One of the older children can make it.

The pattern in the upper left-hand corner is for the cone. It is a quarter circle with a little flap. This flap is pasted to the other straight edge. Put a string in the cone. Secure it with a knot inside. Fasten the other end of the cord to a soft ball or one of the small rubber balls with an elastic may be used.

Mother will not have to run after Jackie's ball if he plays with this when in the street.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

To Whiten Clothes.

A tablespoonful of turpentine in the boiler on wash day will greatly whiten the clothes.

Worth Knowing.

If the vessel containing starch is covered immediately after removing from the fire there will be no scum on top of the starch.

Dishwashing Made Easy.

In clearing up the dishes use a soft piece of paper to wipe the refuse off the plates, as it is this grease which makes dishwashing a disagreeable duty.

A Timely Warning.

Before putting a garment with snap fasteners through the wringer, snap the fasteners together. This will prevent the little knob from being crushed and broken.

Clean Stoves.

A small felt blackboard eraser will be found very useful for keeping the gas range clean. Rubbing the eraser over the stove each day will remove all grease and soil and at the same time keep the hands clean.

Kitchen Aprons.

When making kitchen aprons cut the strings longer than necessary; then if an apron is torn a piece can be taken from one of the ends for mending. It will be better than new, as it will match the used material.

Washington Visitor Is Feted Guest.

In compliment to Mrs. Leigh Palmer, of Washington, D. C., the charming guest of Mrs. William Hill, Mrs. William Kiser was hostess at a beautiful luncheon Tuesday at "Knollwood," her home on Pace's Ferry road.

Masses of lovely summer flowers from the garden of the hostess decorated the spacious reception rooms, sun parlor and terrace.

Luncheon was served from a handsomely appointed table in the dining room, holding in the center a lovely green bowl of Japanese iris, larkspur and snapdragons.

Mrs. Kiser was gowned in orchid-colored lace, fashioned over orchid chiffon.

Miss Palmer's lovely costume was an imported model of gray silk, beaded in steel, and worn with a lavender hat, trimmed with lavender and pink flowers.

Miss Hill wore blue georgette crepe, elaborately embroidered. A black picture hat completed the lovely costume.

Many other interesting affairs have been planned in honor of Mrs. Palmer. Three lovely parties on Wednesday will be Mrs. Edward Inman's, Mrs. J. H. Hurst's and Mrs. E. P. McBurney's.

Thursday Mrs. Charles A. Conklin, and Mrs. John N. Goddard will give a luncheon at the Druid Hills club in honor of this feted visitor.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Backwell will entertain at dinner Thursday evening and Mrs. Dunbar Roy will be hostess at a luncheon for Mrs. Palmer Friday.

BEAUTY CHATS

MANICURE HINTS

No hand can be pretty unless the nails are well cared for. Every woman, therefore, should know exactly how to look after her nails. Those who can afford a personal maid to do this for them are fortunate in this respect at least, for their nails will be perfectly cared for, but other women must either go to a manicure parlor or learn to do this work for themselves.

I would advise every woman who can afford it to have her nails professionally manicured once a month or once in six weeks, and take care of them herself in the meantime. This is because it is almost impossible to do the nails at home as well as the girl who makes this her profession. In spite of every precaution the sensitive skin around the edge of the nails, particularly at each corner, will become rough and hard and form ugly little hangnails. The professional manicurist can correct this without any trouble because she can use both hands for her work, while the woman herself can only use one.

Here are a few hints which I think you will find valuable. After shaping the nails with a file soak the finger tips for a few moments in a bowl of warm soapy water containing a little lemon juice; this is to bleach the skin from the nails. Do not cut the cuticle if you can possibly help it. After the hands have been soaked rub them with vaseline or cold cream and push back the cuticle or scurf skin with the blunt end of an orangewood stick.

The skin at the corners of the nails will always have to be cut. To do this satisfactorily you will have to have a pair of good scissors.

Minnie N.—Consult the doctor about this unusual growth of hair on the chest. Never do anything that you also use cleansing cream. The reason for the cream is to dissolve the soil in the pores, which it will do more effectively than soap. The removal of the soiled cream can be done then with warm water, but since this has opened the pores, they should be closed again by dashes of very cold water.

Tomorrow—Imagine Yourself Well

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

DRESS BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

The rosette of organdie is put into service this summer, as it serves on a hat, a frock, a parasol and a wrap. France is trying to persuade the world to wear organdie, but it remains to be seen whether America will adopt it outside of the youthful circles.

From whence sprung the organdie rosette? No one knows. No one cares. Lanvin has the credit of starting it. It is a royal emblem used in a democratic world under a republican form of government. However, clothes of today have no caste. They did when Elizabeth was queen of England and Catherine de Medici queen of France. Those stalwart rulers did not permit the middle classes to dress as they did. There was an edict in England against finery on men, so that they would not be confused with courtiers. Today it is often the case that the royal left in the world dresses simply in order not to be confused with the small-salaried worker who wears the fine plumage and the glittering beads.

The rosette has held its own, despite the change of governments, throughout color, and they have no hesitancy in offering red to every woman regardless of her coloring. The rosette is the most fortunate thing about the wide-brimmed sunshade hat, for it presents less danger than the Slavic aviator or the red carnation. The high crown maintained by all milliners is a menace to beauty. It needs a small oval face beneath it. The side drapery assists everyone. A woman with American face looks well with white above it. It can stand an elongation at the sides of brim and crown. This is the only method of making some hats wearable.

STOCKING FORETHOUGHT.

Not every stocking marked No. 9 is of the same size and shape as every other stocking similarly marked. Different brands of stockings differ in length, and even more do they differ in width and shape. It is wise, therefore, to adopt a certain brand of stocking that fits your foot particularly well and then always to secure this stocking when you wish to replenish your supply.

If you are buying novelty or imported stockings the brand of which you are not familiar with, be sure to examine them carefully to see that the shape is fitted to your foot. Few things are more irritating than small stockings. Silk stockings that are too small are especially annoying, for there is less give to them than to those of wool or lisle.

There is quite a vogue now for lisle stockings, especially in the so-called "sports" types. Often these are more expensive than silk stockings almost always more so than those of finer silk. Still many persons find a good quality lisle stocking an economy, as it is usually more durable than those of all silk. Some women find stockings of silk and wool to be most comfortable and enduring on the market. They are especially agreeable for all sorts of outdoor sport, as they give the feet much less opportunity of blistering than do those of silk.

So-called "nude" stockings, stockings of beige, sand and other light tan shades, are popular at the present time. They are still worn by many women of exclusive taste in spite of this wide popularity. You may have found the lisle stockings of this color in the better grade of quality expensive. It is possible to buy a good quality white lisle stocking at a lower price. One woman who wishes to wear the lisle stockings this summer and does not wish to pay the high price asked for them, has bought half a dozen white lisle stockings, and with the aid of a package of red beads, converted them into "nude" colored stockings that show no flaw in the coloring.

Mrs. Peace and Mrs. Davis Are Honored at Luncheon

Mrs. Frederick Peace and Mrs. Tompfit Davis were honor guests at the elegantly appointed buffet luncheon, given Tuesday by Mrs. Archibald Davis, at her home on Peachtree road.

The reception rooms were decorated in an artistic arrangement of flowers, including sweet peas, snapdragons, roses, anemones and larkspur. The table in the dining room was covered with a handsome cloth of lace and embroidery, while adorning the center was a silver basket holding Killarney roses, white carnations, and var-colored summer flowers. Silver candlesticks held unshaded pink tapers, while silver compotes held pink mints and bonbons.

Mrs. Archibald Davis wore a beautiful gown of black cotton crepe, edged in an elaborate design of red beads. Her flowers was a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Peace wore a smart model of red cotton crepe, beaded in red and worn with a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Peace will be pleasantly remembered by a wide circle of friends as Miss Margaret Brooks, a former resident of Atlanta, where she was her home with her aunt, Mrs. Davis. She attended Washington seminary.

Later going to Vassar college, of which institution she is a graduate. Mrs. Peace also spent much time prior to her marriage in study and travel in Europe. The fact that she will make her home in Atlanta, coming here from Harrisburg, Pa., is of cordial interest to her many friends.

Mrs. Tompfit Davis wore a lovely gown of blue georgette crepe, trimmed with silver ribbons and chain silk roses. Her corsage was of pink sweet peas.

Mrs. Davis, whose home is in New York, will be another pleasant addition to the young married set. Mr. Davis' business bringing them to Atlanta for a stay of several months. Mr. and Mrs. Davis will make their home with their mother, Mrs. Archibald Davis.

An Old-Fashioned Garden.

BY MRS. E. P. CRENSHAW.

Flowers will grow just as well in a home made porch box as they will in the beautiful concrete boxes. The boxes are covered by the growing flowers and often completely hidden by them. Get some lumber and have someone make you boxes, for it is easily done and costs very little.

You can get a can of paint at the ten-cent store and paint them green or the same color as the house in which you live.

Fill the boxes with garden soil, and well rotted manure and add some leaf mold if you can conveniently do so.

If your porch is sunny you can grow many different plants in your box. A box filled very full of geraniums with an outside border of verbena or nasturtiums is a beautiful sight. Petunias grow well in boxes and also ageratum, and they will hang down the side of the box and make a mass foliage and blossoms.

If the porch is in the shade most of the time, it is a problem to know just what to plant, for every plant wants sunshine more or less. Ferns want but little sun, and they make a beautiful box when planted very thick. The Boston fern can be trained down the outside of the box and the upstanding ferns put back of this. Ostrich plum grows partly erect and maidenhair and asparagus ferns are always pretty.

One of the most beautiful shady boxes I ever saw was filled with coleus of every hue and color. Put them in so close the roots touch and then you will have a solid mass of glorious colors. There is a soft trailing kind of coleus called "trailing queen" that is fine for planting to run down on outside of boxes.

The following are a few exquisite trailing plants for boxes: Nepeta, parrots feather, manettia vine, English ivy and smilax, oxalis, lantana, sul-tanna, begonia and fuchsia all grow well in partly shaded boxes.

If you want your boxes to look fresh and green all summer, water with liquid manure every week, but be sure it is not too strong. If you can save the water from the ice box, put it on your ferns. The ammonia used in freezing the ice is fine for ferns.

AT WOMAN'S WINDOW

BY W. L. GEORGE

A young mother is often wounded by the apparent lack of interest which her husband seems to display in her wonderful child. To her the child is a messenger from heaven; it is beautiful, a little like herself and a little like her husband in the heyday of his courtship; its gurgles and its attitudes are aesthetic. It is altogether wonderful. And her husband does not seem to know it. Worse still, he is blasphemous enough to utter complaints against it. He wants to know why the brat always squalling; in the bathroom he is irritated by the large number of recently washed garments that are drying. And he grows when, striding the company of his wife, she says that she can't leave the baby, as night he has to soothe it to sleep by walking about with it he ends to do it like a rather irritable martyr.

It is a little hard to counsel sense of proportion to a mother at a time when such a sense must appear unseemly, but she needs it all the same. Women do not realize how slow is sometimes the awakening of maternal love. To few men does helplessness appeal much. Most men like topics and ideas, while women content themselves with emotions. Thus this creature that cannot make itself understood speedily saries man. When the child begins to talk, to put questions, to be fit romp, then it is a different story. The father discovers that the child is so bad after all, and later that it is adorable. That is when he becomes interested in its mind, in its dawning reason. It is in the mother who is obviously designed for the early days, while it is the father who must educate in the ways of the world. No woman can hurt the process, and perhaps she had better not try.

The Housewife's Idea Box

Things for Boys to Make.

Signals at Camp.

Materials needed: Lantern, an old tin plate and a piece of tin or board. The illustration shows what two ingenious boys did when emergency called. They signaled the boys across the lake one dark night with this simple makeshift affair, and did it successfully. The bottom was out of the pail when they found it. A hole was made in one side. A lantern was placed in a stump and the pail placed upside down over it with stones under the edge to permit air to get to the lantern. By the use of a board they flashed a message to the other boys. The general service code was used and by keeping the board over the side hole in the pail and lifting it for the dots and dashes the light from the lantern was released as needed.

Artificial Flowers.

There are sprays of the loveliest artificial flowers, made of shells, painted in all shades of pink and red. Sometimes they are formed into apple blossoms, sometimes into fuschias, sometimes into roses. They are fastened with tiny wires through little holes bored near their base to branches and twigs, and a branch or two of them in a vase are a really beautiful bit of ornamentation. They cost two or three dollars a spray.

"PUTTING THE NEXT ONE OVER" WITH "BUGS" BAER

CERTIFICATE FEVER is fading out like lamps at dawn.

ONCE UPON SOME times, no American bungalow wife would patronize a grocer unless he gave her entire popular edition of trading stamps. No apartment princess would think of buying plunder at corner butcher's unless he presented her with testimonial indemnity of profit-sharing plasters.

NO HOME was complete without its trading stamp man, where valuable certificates were stored until they accumulated in such terrific weight that building inspectors were forced to condemn property and landlord had to reinforce foundations.

THEN WIFEY would shovel her hoarded coupons into a twenty-mule wagon and drive off to town office of profit-sharing corporation. She would escape home again with complete set of hand-saturated oyster forks, all brightly polished for pious symphony.

STEEL RIVETED dollies, asbestos napkins, concrete jewelry, perforated soup kettles, celluloid kitchen stoves, explosive hair curlers, paper hot water bottles and collapsible step-ladders were all considered lawful prey of coupon savers.

GROCERS, MILKMEN and delicatessen gendarmes who didn't award coupon citations with their heroic meal apparatus were shunned by economical market plunderers.

COFFEE MIGHT be bad, but certificates were good. Milk might be sour, but coupons were sweet. Ton of coal might be short, but string of trading stamps was long.

THEY ALL COULD be saved and exchanged for some mysterious household implement that looked like it belonged in some African elephant hunter's trophy room.

EPIDEMIC RAN its course for about fifteen years and then gradually died out like sailor's affections.

NOW, THERE are very few housewives who demand coupons with their groceries, most of them preferring to get food.

Low Tandler Beats Barrett

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Philadelphia, June 6.—Twenty-five uniformed cops swinging their night sticks, and a score of seconds, managers, and prize fight hangers-on leaped into the ring at the close of the sixth round of the Tandler-Barrett fight here Tuesday night and fought a battle royal all over the ring above and around the prostrate blood-smeared figure of Barrett, the slugging advice who had fallen to the canvas claiming that he had been fouled.

Barrett had taken terrific punishment for the better part of six rounds and was due to go down at any second when he finally came in and caused the uproar by crying out to his handlers that Tandler had hit him low.

The fight officially ended in the seventh round.

According to the referee Herman Taylor, who also promoted the fight, Tandler insisted that the blow was fair and that Barrett was unable to answer the bell for the seventh. For that matter neither fighter could have gone out to do any more fighting in this ring for it was populated with half of the police force and it seemed the majority of the ringside crowd also, however, the referee said the verdict was a technical knockout in the seventh.

Low Tandler thus removed the last remaining doubt as to his right to meet Benny Leonard for the lightweight championship, a match which already has been arranged for Jersey City on June 20.

Barrett a Rank Novice.
At that Barrett was a self-imposed doubt assumed by Tandler of his own record for the fight was a crushing roundhouse right-hand swing and almost nothing else but gameness. Tandler is a wrong-way fighter and Barrett contrived to his advantage advertising in a regular fighter or right-hander.

Barrett popped Tandler on the side of the head with terrific right swings a couple of times in every round and every time that right hand landed, Tandler stepped away to think it over. But Barrett was missing dozen of these rights, and Tandler was cutting him in half with a fearful lacing around the unprotected body. He also jabbed Barrett's face into a gruesome smear and belted him almost as he pleased.

It was a fine show of courage on Barrett's part but it was cruel to let loose a novice of his crudity against this clever campaigner of many years.

Connolly's Car Stalled.
The preliminaries were delayed until five and twenty after eight, owing to the unfortunate failure of one-eyed Connolly's car, which became stalled behind a disarrayed truck on the track. Mr. Connolly dismissed the chauffeur and walked to the park. It was his first appearance in the east since the Dempsey-Carpenter skirmish last summer, and he had many doll trills to relate concerning his winter sojourn in one of the most exclusive jails in the Pacific Northwest.

Knock-out George Chesney of Baltimore, stepped right into the first bout and planted a left hook precisely on the chin of Allie Nock, a New York lightweight, before the New York fight was over.

Mr. Nock was then removed and the next pair came on. They were Joe Jackson, a Philadelphia featherweight, 147 pounds and Phil Kaplan, of New York, also 147 pounds, but known as a welterweight. Kaplan won. Jackson was not permitted to use a knife, but he did what he could with his teeth and his knees when he wasn't hitting below the belt.

Tim Dronney, of Lancaster, Pa., and Earl France, of California, lightweights both, went eight rounds. France had the edge of a very clean and entertaining boxing exhibition.

Philadelphia made this night after the dignified manner of Philadelphia nights, in or out. Curfew was postponed until midnight and the entire city seemed to move out to the ancient hall park where Kaiser Irving Wilhelm's rear guards of the National league are in the habit of accepting their defeats. There were about 10,000 seats in the stands at a dollar each.

Tandler and Barrett entered the ring at catch weights having made their official weight of 135 pounds last Friday when the fight first scheduled only to be postponed twice by rain. Weighing just before the ring time Barrett scaled 136 and Tandler 137.1-2.

MANY STARS ENTER MEET

Chicago, June 6.—Entries from college track aggregations over the entire country, including the winners of 15 state and conference meets, and been received today by Major John L. Griffith, of the University of Illinois for the national intercollegiate championship track meet to be held at the University of Chicago, June 17.

More than 100 teams are expected to enter the meet, which is the second annual event to be staged by the national collegiate athletic association.

With all the big teams and Missouri Valley squads lined up and practicing each day in preparation for the contest and teams coming from New York, California, Texas, Minnesota, the N. C. A. A. meet this year will be representative of the country with the Detroit Tigers when he questioned the umpire's decision.

Champions Enter.
In the meet, besides numerous aggregations of star performers, will be the champions from every section. California, winner of the Eastern intercollegiate meet and winner of the Pacific coast title; Washington University, winner of the Pacific Northwest conference; Illinois, Western conference titleholder; Georgia Tech, champions of the Southern intercollegiate association; Texas A. & M., winner of the Southwest Nebraska, and Missouri Valley champions, will all be strong contenders.

Other conference states meet winners entered include: Colorado, Ohio, Knox, Michigan Aggies, Notre Dame, Beloit and South Dakota.

Hamilton College, of Clinton, N. Y., has entered and Hugo Besdek of Penn State has sent word that he is sending a good representation of athletes. The University of Montana, Brock University, Central Wesleyan, of Warrenton, Mo., Notre Dame, Hastings College and Wesleyan University, of Middletown, Conn., are entered.

Coch Lawson Robinson, of Pennsylvania will send Larry Brown and Bronner to give competition in the half mile and javelin.

Tobin Reinstated.
St. Louis, Mo., June 6.—Johnny Tobin, rightfielder for the St. Louis Americans, was today reinstated following his suspension here during the series with the Detroit Tigers when he questioned the umpire's decision.

CHANCE IS GOOD THAT MORVICH MEETS SNOB

New York, June 6.—The possibility of a meeting between Morvich, Benjamin Block's unbeaten colt, and Snob II, J. S. Cadden's imported sensation, considered by turf followers the fleetest three-year-olds of the season, loomed today as a result of the announcement by Fred Burlew, Morvich's trainer, that he was pointing the colt for the Carlton stakes at Aqueduct, June 17.

Snob's entry in the race, which is limited to three-year-olds and over a distance of a mile, was by no means certain, but if the winner of the historic Withers stake is successful in the $50,000 Belmont classic next Saturday, there is a strong possibility that the rival thoroughbreds will meet later in the season.

Morvich's import for the Carlton would be 123 pounds, three pounds less than Snob would be asked to carry if victorious in the Belmont.

Burlew's decision, incidentally, assured eastern race followers their first glimpse this season of the Kentucky derby winner before he was sent to Landon, Ky., for the $50,000 "Special" and the derby.

TWO CHAMPIONS MUST DEFEND TITLES

New York, June 6.—The New York state athletic commission today notified Johnny Kilbane, featherweight boxing champion, and Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion, that unless they sign articles by June 20, agreeing to meet challengers for their title, the championship titles of both will be forfeited so far as the jurisdiction of the state commission is concerned.

The commission stipulated that Kilbane must accept a challenge by John Dundee and that Wilson must fulfill a contract it declares he made some time ago to box Harry Greb, who recently won the light heavyweight title by defeating Gene Tunney.

Failure to meet the terms of the commission's formal "ultimatum" will deprive both boxers of their right to apply for licenses in New York, the commission announced, and all their championships will be declared open for competition to all boxers in their respective classes.

Kilbane Will Fight.
Cleveland, Ohio, June 6.—When told of the action of the New York athletic commission, Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, declared last night that he is willing to defend his title at the legitimate featherweight limit at any time and place, providing a suitable purse is offered.

Kilbane declared he just returned from New York today after a week's visit during which time he had received only one offer to box in New York in the last year, and a half.

He said, he was for a purse of $40,000, which he did not consider large enough.

Kilbane said he had never applied for a license to box in New York.

DOUBLE BILL IS ON TODAY

The Crackers, momentarily halted yesterday by Daniel Boone in the concluding game of the series with the Lookouts, will be given a chance to get up into sixth position at Ponce de Leon this afternoon, when the first two of six games stretched out over four days will be played. The Nashville Volunteers will provide the competition and should the locals annex four of the struggles, their claim on sixth place will be good.

Lefty James and Oscar Turo are the pitchers upon whom Atlanta fans will bank for the twin decision. That both are capable of pitching well enough to trim the Vols has been demonstrated. James has had fairly good ball since joining the Crackers and Turo has yet to lose a game as an Atlanta pitcher.

"Red Rose" Lucas, the pitching ace of the Vols, and incidentally the only pitcher under Doyle's supervision with any remarkable run of victories to his credit, will hardly make his appearance before well toward the close of the series. The "Red Rose" pitched yesterday in Birmingham and was badly handled by the Barons.

On Winning Strike.
The Crackers have struck a winning stride at last and it should not be long before Hariden's charges are in the runner's shoes. The team has already made up for much of the ground lost during the heart-breaking start and slowly, but surely the percentage is approaching the fifty-fifty point.

That this point will be reached easily before the middle of the month is conceded by those students of the game who are spectators. The experts take the position that Atlanta has one of the strongest teams in the circuit and the players are apparently working their heads off for their new pilot.

The first of the games will start at 2:15 o'clock. Fifteen minutes later than double headers are accustomed to start under way in Atlanta. Gate receipts are picking up at Ponce de Leon and the Atlanta franchise is ahead of the field in the matter of attendance. More than five thousand spectators saw the games between Atlanta and Chattanooga. There should be close to five thousand at the orchard this afternoon.

VETERANS HASTENING TO JOIN POST ROSTER

The total number of new members for Atlanta Post, No. 1, the American Legion, reached 275 at noon Tuesday and the drive is gaining daily.

Fuzzy Woodruff, general chairman of the campaign committee, met the members and team leaders at luncheon at the Ansley hotel and expressed great pleasure at the progress made. "We will have four hundred new members before Wednesday night," he said, "and the enthusiasm for the legion, which we have created by the drive, will bring in as many more during the next week."

It was announced at the luncheon that the post will celebrate "new members' night" by giving a smoker in the main dining room of the Ansley Friday night, June 9, for the special benefit of the men who recently have come into the legion. Music will be furnished by a special orchestra and refreshments will be served. The principal address will be made by Dean Johnston. The only requisite for admission will be a 1922 membership card in the American Legion.

The legion headquarters, in charge of J. G. C. Bloodworth, at the Chamber of Commerce building, will remain open during the remainder of the week. The campaign committee and

Doctor Arrested In Dope Exposure Quietly Removed

Dr. H. C. Carrick, assistant physician at the federal prison, who is being held in default of $3,000 bond for the alleged head of the drug-smuggling ring at the penitentiary, was quietly removed from the Fulton County Jail to the jail of a neighboring county Tuesday, by Judge Samuel H. Sibley.

The removal was ordered at the request of the district attorney's office. The district attorney declined to give the reason for the step, but intimated it was in the interest of secrecy. At his request the name of the county to which the prisoner was ordered removed is withheld.

It was revealed Tuesday that a number of guards at the prison were voluntarily made confessions as to their part in the drug conspiracy. Several additional arrests are expected to result from their admissions.

... COTTON AND COMMODITY PRICES ...

Chicago, June 6.—Although the market here showed firmness the greater part of the time today, prices gave way at last owing largely to reports of British offers to resell wheat at 20 cents less than Chicago was asking.

The close here was heavy, 1-8 to 3-8 cents net lower, with July and September both at $1.12 1-8. Corn finished unchanged to 3-8 cents lower, oats 3-8 cent off to 1-10, and clover seed unchanged to 12 to 12 1-2 cents.

In connection with the downturn of prices in the wheat market near the end of the day, talk of British reselling was emphasized by word that good rains had fallen in India and Australia, and by estimates that India would have an exportable surplus of 50,000,000 bushels, besides domestic crops were being favored by good weather and the hot wave over Canada was broken. Furthermore, mills appeared to be taking an active interest in wheat as possible, and to be waiting for a move.

An advance tendency which the wheat market displayed up to the final half hour of the session resulted in a large extent from the fact that a post-holiday decline in Liverpool quotations turned out to be smaller than was looked for, and was further discontinued by an advance in sterling exchange. Another bullish factor was big shipments from Chicago, 800,000 bushels clearing yesterday, whereas arrivals here today were only a dozen carloads.

Corn and oats prices were dominated by the action of the wheat market. Higher quotations on hogs gave a lift to provisions.

Stock Market Inclined To Be Soft; Merger Developments Bearish

BY R. L. BARNUM,

Constitution's New York Financial Correspondent.

New York, June 6.—Outside of steel common, Consolidated General again claims to have secured the support of the other stockholders of United Fruit, Pittsburg Coal and a few others in the proposed merger of independent steel companies have left a bad taste. However, in discussing today the action of the federal trade commission in calling a hearing July 24 on the consolidation of Bethlehem and Lackawanna, President Grace, of Bethlehem, said: "We will welcome the fullest investigation, and I believe that when the facts are known the public mind will be fully apprised. We will shortly be ready for the purchase and we will be glad if the commission will hear the case in advance of the time fixed in its complaint."

Today's most important news from Wall street's viewpoint was the announcement before the opening of the market that the railroad labor board had handed down a decision reducing the hourly pay of shopmen from 5 to 9 cents, the total cut to reach $59,669,000, as close as could be estimated. Wall street hopes the railroad labor board will add other wage reductions to those announced first for maintenance of waymen and now for shopmen. It is realized here that the strongly organized union men will be a troublesome lot and that, with some of the industrial companies now voluntarily increasing wages and then selling prices, will not be as easy to get railway wages down as it would have been a few weeks or months ago. Hence the street was interested to get reports from today's meeting at Cincinnati of labor leaders representing 2,000,000 railway employees.

Illinois Steel and Inland Steel both increased today prices on bare shapes and plates a dollar a ton, according to Chicago dispatches.

With funds beginning to pile up here for payment of the second installment of income taxes and with money attracted from the interior by last week's high interest rates call money opened at 4 per cent today and was then freely borrowed down to 3 1/2 per cent. There was a change in the time money market, which has hardened a fraction, but lower rates for time money are expected now that call money is again down.

Sales Report. S. S. Kresge Company reports for May sales of $4,232,000 against $4,232,000 a year ago. For the 5 months the figures are $21,063,000 against $19,923,000 a year ago. Looseville, Pa. directors have declared a dividend of $175 a share on the second pro rata account of back dividends and payments. In 1912 a share of $41 1/2 was due on these shares.

Coffee.—New York, June 6.—The market for coffee futures was active and reported a firmer tone in Brazil, talk of an improved spot demand and apprehensions that the report of a possible frost followed by a cold snap such as that as dead trees toward the end of June in India would be confirmed. The market closed 4 points and sold 9 to 22 points net high, with September contracts selling at 16 1/2.

Southern Pacific Surplus. Southern Pacific reported today for the fiscal year ended December 31, 1921, a surplus after fixed charges equal to $8.90 a share on the $342,000,000 stock against $10.45 for 1920.

Managers of the six New Hampshire cotton mills which have been closed since last February because of a proposed 20 per cent reduction in wages, have agreed to a settlement with the 20 per cent union in effect expressing the belief that the real situation was not disclosed by yesterday's vote. The settlement calls for the 25,000 employees returned to work. The strikers who stayed on the side lines claim a victory, but the unionists are disappointed.

more men at work at the close of the day than at the opening and that the number of employed will gradually increase.

Advertising for Men.

In the meantime the Tennessee Coal & Lron Company, of Birmingham, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, which has just voluntarily increased the wages of some of its men 10 per cent, has also advertised for 100 additional workers. The Wheeling steel corporation which yesterday announced a voluntary increase of wages today announces that sheet piling work on the ship canal project of the year have been advanced from

BOATRIGHT LIKELY
AS NEW U. S. JUDGE

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.
Washington, June 6.—(By Constitution Leased Wire).—From callers at the department of justice today, it was learned that a recommendation had been made for the vacancy in the federal judgeship for the southern district of Georgia, caused by the recent death of Judge Beverly D. Evans.

While no official announcement was given out, it is reliably understood that the applicant agreed upon is F. G. Boatright, republican, of Columbia.

dele, and that an alternate recommendation has also been transmitted to the attorney-general for consideration.

At the office of Assistant Attorney-General Holland, who has been handling the Georgia appointment, no indication of the name of the applicant recommended was given, although it was admitted that two had been submitted. The two names, it was stated, had been forwarded to the office of Attorney-General Daugherty for final selection.

Three Considered.
Among republicans it is known that the department has been considering three republican candidates as likely successors to the office. In addition to Boatright, they are G. H. Williams, of Dublin, and Charles W. Akerman, of Macon. Which of the last two named was recommended as second choice to the department had not been known.

Persons calling upon the assistant attorney-general today did so for the purpose of learning if a democratic appointment was likely.

It was this which led to the official statement that two republicans had been found available, with a specific and alternate recommendation having already been made. Officials stated that final disposition of the Georgia appointment will be delayed for several days yet, intimating that the attorney-general would probably send the name of one of the two recommended to the president during the latter part of next week.

To Plead for Williams.
In the meantime, a delegation of south Georgia lawyers, headed by R. East Camp, of Dublin; Judge E. D. Graham, of McRae, and A. S. Bradley, of Swainsboro, have requested an appointment with Attorney-General Daugherty the first of next week for the purpose of making a final statement in urging the appointment of Williams, and will reach Washington Sunday.

It is understood that the investigation sent to Georgia recently, for the purpose of looking into the individual qualifications of the applicants, made a favorable report and recommendation of Boatright.

Repeal Blue Laws,
Says Civitan Head
Before Convention

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 6.—Declaration that blue laws should be repealed and that civilization would be advanced unless the errors of the past were corrected, marked the annual address of President Courtney W. Shropshire, of Birmingham, at the opening meeting of International Civitan Clubs here today.

He said that the outstanding purpose of the organization was the building of good citizenship, and that in this effort the alien, the native born citizen and their children were the material that must be considered. President Shropshire urged compulsory education of aliens and reaped the native born citizen who takes no interest in civic affairs.

"Religiously," he said, "this man is worse than dead." President Shropshire said that the Civitan was making great strides and if it had been the desire the membership could have been increased to a formidable figure.

Referring to blue laws, President Shropshire said that it is "the solemn duty of every citizen to see that they are repealed and that sanity and justice to all govern the passage of all future laws. Unless saved from the errors of the past by such organizations as civitan, our civilization will perish from the earth even as Egypt, Babylon, Greece and Rome."

Among other speakers today were former Governor Charles H. Brough, of Arkansas; Mayor A. W. Chambliss, of Chattanooga; and Ernest Greenwood, of Washington. Only two cities are contesting for the next convention, Washington and Miami, Fla.

Tomorrow's program includes election of officers and address by Rev. W. J. DeBardeleben, pastor of Payne Memorial church, officiating. Inter-

ARBITRATION PLAN

Hazleton, Penn., June 6.—Members of the anthracite miners' general scale committee, at their meeting today, unanimously voted rejection of the arbitration offer as submitted last week by the operators of the hard coal field.

MINERS DECLINE
ARBITRATION PLAN

Continuance of the wage negotiations, however, was provided for in action of the committee in directing a sub-committee to draft a counter proposal to the operators. This counter proposal will be submitted to the general scale committee for approval at another meeting here tomorrow.

purpose of learning if a democratic appointment was likely.

It was this which led to the official statement that two republicans had been found available, with a specific and alternate recommendation having already been made. Officials stated that final disposition of the Georgia appointment will be delayed for several days yet, intimating that the attorney-general would probably send the name of one of the two recommended to the president during the latter part of next week.

To Plead for Williams.
In the meantime, a delegation of south Georgia lawyers, headed by R. East Camp, of Dublin; Judge E. D. Graham, of McRae, and A. S. Bradley, of Swainsboro, have requested an appointment with Attorney-General Daugherty the first of next week for the purpose of making a final statement in urging the appointment of Williams, and will reach Washington Sunday.

It is understood that the investigation sent to Georgia recently, for the purpose of looking into the individual qualifications of the applicants, made a favorable report and recommendation of Boatright.
